Brownell Sets Up Unit To Prosecute Cases

Housing Matters Will Be Presented To Special Grand Jury in Washington

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Brownell today created a new unit in the Justice Department's Criminal Division to handle a mounting number of cases arising from scandals in the Federal Housing Administration.

At the same time, the attorney general said he is assigning Max H. Goldschein, a top criminal prosecutor in the department, to assist U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover in presenting housing matters before a special grand jury opening here today.

The department said the special grand jury will "inquire into bribery and other criminal conduct in the federal housing program, and specifically into the conduct of Clyde L. Powell," ousted assistant FHA commissioner.

MEANWHILE, Powell sought a court order to block the grand jury investigation.

Through his attorney, Daniel B. Maher, Powell filed papers challenging the validity of the grand jury. He had been scheduled to appear before it this morning.

Maher's petition asked the U. S. District Court to "take judicial notice of countless predictions in newspapers and political forecasters that there would be political indictments returned against members of the former administration prior to the November election."

Today's developments came in the wake of testimony before the Senate Banking Committee yesterday that Powell demanded and received $10,000 from a Washington architect before he would approve an application for increasing an FHA-insured loan on an apartment project here.

THE COMMITTEE also heard testimony that Powell banked almost three times his salary over a period from 1945 through last April, although he reported only his salary on federal income tax returns.

Maher, in addition to contesting the validity of the special grand jury, specifically asked that a subpoena for Powell's appearance be quashed

Aldermen Okay Bus Service Bid

Mountain View Also Has Request

Common Council action last night approved the use of city streets by the proposed Lipton's Bee Line bus service, and the aldermen received another application for travel over city streets to and from the New York State Thruway by Mountain View Coach Lines, Inc.

A report of the railroad and bus committee on the Lipton application noted that the aldermen were concerned only with the line's operation in the city and that approval was only on the condition that no passengers were to be admitted or discharged outside of terminal points in the city.

The Mountain View line seeks permission to operate over Washington avenue and North Front street between the Crown street terminal and the thruway. The application was referred to the railroad and bus committee.

THE LIPTON LINE would use streets between the uptown terminal and Route 9W from where it would travel a back road route to Saugerties, passing the IBM plant. Similar legislative action is expected in Sau-

Thruway May Open Week 26th

Parade Planned With Ceremonies

Latest reports on the opening of the New York State Thruway between Albany and Harriman fixes the date on or about Oct. 26 or during that week..

A state official said today he had "nothing to say at this time," on the opening date, but a report today from a reliable source, said the thruway authority is aiming at the 26th for the opening date.

A parade will be held here and in other communities along the route on the opening date. B. D. Tallamy, thruway authority head, late last week, said the opening date was uncertain and much would depend upon "the rate of production" of work along the way within the next few weeks.

Authority Is Given

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France has been authorized by his cabinet to stake the life of his government if necessary on parliamentary approval of the London agreements for West Germany rearmament and sovereignty. One of the ministers disclosed this action was taken at a three-hour meeting of the cabinet today with President Rene Coty presiding.

Locals Are Expected To Ratify

Wage Boost Made Retroactive One

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A day-old strike of 25,000 longshoremen will end tomorrow at 8 a. m., an International Longshoremen's Assn. official announced today.

Patrick J. Connolly, executive vice president of the independent union, made the announcement after a meeting of the union wage scale committee.

Along the paralyzed waterfront it had been believed the men would return immediately following the meeting of the committee called to ratify a peace formula reached last night by union and shipping representatives with the help of federal mediators.

CONNOLLY SAID tomorrow was chosen for resumption of work because union locals also had to ratify the agreement. He appeared certain they would, asserting "it's 100 per cent sure everybody will be back to work tomorrow morning."

He said he was advising John. V. Lyon, chairman of the New York Shipping Assn. that the 25,000 dock workers would be on the job tomorrow morning.

Terms of the agreement were announced by federal mediator John Andrew Burke after a 2½-hour talk last night with union leaders and representatives of the New York Shipping Assn.

The settlement included payment of an eight-cent hourly wage boost retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953, which employers estimate will cost about four million dollars. In turn, the union would pledge not to strike again for 45 days while attempts are made to negotiate a new contract.

THE WAGE INCREASE would bring longshoremen's pay up to $2.35 an hour.

Ives Says Harriman Invented Charge He Opposed Big Projects

Ogdensburg, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives, the target for a barrage of ripe tomatoes last night, made his juice-spattered hat a campaign symbol today and moved on through the St. Lawrence seaway territory attacking the Democrats.

The Republican candidate for governor and his wife were unhurt—although Mrs. Ives was splashed—by tomatoes thrown at them in Watertown.

Ives, who voted against the seaway bill in the Senate, called the incident typical "of the kind of dirty, nasty campaign" he said the Democrats were conducting.

HE SAID A SPOT of juice the size of a quarter had splashed onto his hat and "it's going to stay on there right through the campaign."

Mrs. Ives was splattered heavily by a tomato that struck the rail of a platform where the senator was speaking in Watertown's public square—with his hat on a chair.

Last night Ives angrily said he could "fight skunks with the same kind of stink." But he ignored the tomato-throwing incident in the text of a speech prepared for delivery here today.

Ives accused Averell Harriman, his Democratic opponent for governor, of "inventing" a charge that Ives had voted and worked against development of St. Lawrence and Niagara hydroelectric power. The senator declared he had supported both.

WATERTOWN POLICE said today they had heard that a "gang of kids" threw the tomatoes from a hotel roof. They added that they had found no trace of the throwers.

Assemblyman Orin S. Wilcox, Jefferson county Republican, was struck on the thigh and splashed by one tomato. He, too, was unhurt.

Ives declared later that he was unruffled by the incident at first, but "got mad" when he learned Mrs. Ives had been splashed. He interrupted his speech to brand the affair as "a shot that was right straight below the belt" and typical of the Democratic campaign.

"And don't you think for one minute that as I progress in this campaign that I will hesitate to take off the gloves and take them on," he continued.

"Because I can battle, too. I can get mad, too. And when I fight skunks I fight with the same kind of stink they have."

THE SENATOR, on a four-day, 1,000-mile tour by chartered bus, opened the third day of his campaign trip today by speaking at a rally in Gouverneur, near Watertown.

In his speech at Ogdensburg—just a few miles from the site of Council Asks Registration

The Common Council, through special action last night beckoned city voters to get out to register so they may vote in the November election.

A resolution by Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel won the solid backing of the council, after he noted that registration has been low in the city, to date.

Radel offered the resolution after Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, noting that it is National Press Week, commended newsmen, Ira V. D. Warren, of the Kingston Ulster Press, and Charles R. Douglas, of The Freeman, for their "presenting of the council news impartially," through the years.

RADEL THEN suggested that the newsmen could be helpful in providing "more extensive publicity" in behalf of a better registration of voters, and he offered a resolution to that effect.

Alderman-at-large Kelly suggested that local radio and television officials also be contacted to assist in the drive for a better registration.

Here It Is: Winter to Be Mild, Says Shultis

Don't get out your woolies yet.

This advice comes from Tom Shultis, the Bearsville weather prophet, who was ready today with his long range forecast for the fall and winter.

Judging from Tom's accuracy in the past, there's no cause to rush for the mothballs to stow away the summer garments.

What about the weather for the coming fall and winter?

Mostly mild, says Shultis, except for a cold period about the second week in January and again in February.

And, look for most of the sunshine and clear weather in December and January.

Storms for the entire fall and winter will be numerous, but light.

SAVE ON WATER, is Tom's advice, we're in for a warm dry fall.

Rainfall will be below normal, and the water levels are due to drop in the reservoirs and sources of water supply.

The temperature? Above normal advises the Bearsville prophet, who is besieged from all sections of the nation, especially Florida, for forecasts.

Selection Chairman Quits Post

Batchelor Prison Term His Reason

Big Spring, Tex., Oct. 6 (AP)—This west Texas city's draft board chairman has resigned because he does not like the life prison sentence meted out to Cpl. Claude Batchelor.

Batchelor, 22, of Kermit, Tex., was convicted by a court-martial at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., last week on charges of collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow POW's while a captive of the Chinese Reds in Korea.

Draft Board Chairman H. W. Wright said he did not condone collaboration with the Communists but that he thought "brainwashing" and Batchelor's youth should have "been considered."

BATCHELOR was one of 23 Americans who chose to stay with the Reds after the Korean armistice. Later he and Cpl. Edward Dickenson of Crackers Neck, Va., changed their minds and returned to United Nations control.

Dickenson was tried on charges similar to those against Batchelor and given 10 years in prison at hard labor. He was a prosecution witness against the Texan.

Wright made public yesterday a letter of resignation he sent to Paul Wakefield, state Selective Service director, in Austin, Tex. It said in part:

"MY CONSCIENCE will not let me be a part of drafting young men who might later be subject to the severe punishment that was rendered Cpl. Claude Batchelor.

"Although I can not tolerate any one who would collaborate with Communists, I am still of the opinion that the court did not take into consideration that this boy was only 16 years old when he entered military service and that you and I know that a large per cent of the older men could not stand up under the severe punishment and brain washing that the Communists are able to force upon their prisoners."

Court Okays O&W Station's Sale

New York, Oct. 6 (Special)—The bankrupt Ontario and Western Railway received court permission today to sell its Kingston passenger station to the Herzog Supply Company which has been using the building as a warehouse.

Robert Herzog of Kingston bid $18,500 for the property today. His bid was $500 higher then a competing bidder had offered. Herzog paid $500 down on the property.

THE SALE IS SUBJECT to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission to remove the railroad tracks still on the property.

Herzog said his company may build an additional warehouse on the grounds.

Elbert Oakes, attorney for the trustee of the O & W said that one or two unspecified branch lines will be abandoned by the road. He said negotiations are underway with New York state officials and the state may buy the right of way of these branch lines for highway purposes.

IF THE SALE goes through, he said, the O & W may realize a large profit. He pointed out, however, that these lines will be abandoned whether there is a sale, because they are unprofitable.

The abandonment must be approved by the ICC. An application will be made within a few months.

State Organizations Form Committee to Get Out Votes

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP)—Eleven statewide civic, business, industrial and veterans organizations have formed a committee to help get out the vote for the Nov. 2 elections.

The Non-Partisan Good Citizens Committee of the State of New York was organized yesterday and elected Robert G. Soule of Syracuse as its chairman.

The committee comprises representatives of Associated Industries of New York State Inc., the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, the Empire State Chamber of Commerce, the New York State Council of Retail Merchants, the New York State League of Women Voters, the State Department of the American Legion, the State Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the New York State Junior Chamber of Commerce, the New York State School Boards Assn., the New York State Assn. of Real Estate Boards and the New York State Teachers Assn.

President May Take Active Campaign Role

Denver, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Eisenhower may notify Republican leaders at a political strategy parley here Friday that he has decided to play a more active role in the GOP campaign for continued control of Congress.

Presidential aides at the Denver White House said today the Chief Executive still had made no firm commitments, but they indicated he is showing increasing concern about reports from party leaders that Republican candidates face a hard fight in November election contests against the Democrats.

Eisenhower's decision whether to make more campaign addresses than he had planned may be made after he has had a chance to talk over the situation with Vice President Nixon.

Nixon is scheduled to arrive in Denver tonight and he probably will report to Eisenhower tomorrow on GOP prospects. The vice president is on an extensive campaign tour of the country.

Eisenhower and Nixon will team up Friday evening in a nationwide television-radio address on behalf of GOP candidates for the Senate and House.

They will broadcast from the 6,000-seat Denver Municipal Auditorium at a big political rally. And aides have said it will be the President's hardest hitting speech of the campaign.

Two hours before Eisenhower and Nixon go on the air they will meet here with Republican congressional leaders.

At this time the President has only two more political speeches scheduled during the campaign—the one on Friday night, the other Nov. 1, election eve.

But the White House said yesterday he is considering several invitations to make additional addresses. It did not deny Nixon's Tuesday night statement that the chief executive probably will make a major speech in the Washington (DC) area about Oct. 20.

Echoing earlier reports to the President, Rep. Richard Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the GOP congressional campaign committee said at a news conference yesterday that the Republicans have a real fight on their hands to keep the Democrats from recapturing control of Congress.

But Simpson, after a meeting with Eisenhower, said that while the going may be rough he looks for his party to increase its margin in the House by 15 to 20 seats.

Administration May Await French Assembly Action

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration probably will wait until after the French Assembly has acted before it asks the Senate to approve agreements making Germany a partner in the Atlantic alliance.

That would mean that the package deal worked out in London last week would not be presented before the new session of Congress beginning in January.

Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted yesterday that the agreements, insofar as they require U. S. action, would be approved at special session next month if they were submitted by that time.

However, there is a strong feeling among State Department officials that the United States should not take the lead in giving final approval to the London plan, as is did in 1952 in confirming the European Defense Community (EDC) program.

The French Assembly stalled on that until last month, when it finally killed off EDC. The

Brownell Sets Up Unit To Prosecute Cases

Housing Matters Will Be Presented To Special Grand Jury in Washington

The Common Council, through special action last night beckoned city voters to get out to register so they may vote in the November election.

A resolution by Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel won the solid backing of the council, after he noted that registration has been low in the city, to date.

Radel offered the resolution after Alderman-at-large Joseph Kelly, noting that it is National Press Week, commended newsmen, Ira V. D. Warren, of the Kingston Ulster Press, and Charles R. Douglas, of The Freeman, for their "presenting of the council news impartially," through the years.

Boston, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gergory Peter XV Cardinal Agagianian, spiritual leader of four million Armenian Catholics, arrived here from Rome today for a month's visit in the United States.

Here It Is: Winter to Be Mild, Says Shultis

Don't get out your woolies yet.

This advice comes from Tom Shultis, the Bearsville weather prophet, who was ready today with his long range forecast for the fall and winter.

Judging from Tom's accuracy in the past, there's no cause to rush for the mothballs to stow away the summer garments.

What about the weather for the coming fall and winter?

Mostly mild, says Shultis, except for a cold period about the second week in January and again in February.

And, look for most of the sunshine and clear weather in December and January.

Storms for the entire fall and winter will be numerous, but light.

SAVE ON WATER, is Tom's advice, we're in for a warm dry fall.

Rainfall will be below normal, and the water levels are due to drop in the reservoirs and sources of water supply.

The temperature? Above normal advises the Bearsville prophet, who is besieged from all sections of the nation, especially Florida, for forecasts.

Old-timers are forecasting a

Batchelor Prison Term His Reason

Big Spring, Tex., Oct. 6 (AP)—This west Texas city's draft board chairman has resigned because he does not like the life prison sentence meted out to Cpl. Claude Batchelor.

Batchelor, 22, of Kermit, Tex., was convicted by a court-martial at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., last week on charges of collaborating with the enemy and informing on fellow POW's while a captive of the Chinese Reds in Korea.

Draft Board Chairman H. W. Wright said he did not condone collaboration with the Communists but that he thought "brainwashing" and Batchelor's youth should have "been considered."

BATCHELOR was one of 23 Americans who chose to stay with the Reds after the Korean armistice. Later he and Cpl. Edward Dickenson of Crackers Neck, Va., changed their minds and returned to United Nations control.

Dickenson was tried on charges similar to those against Batchelor and given 10 years in prison at hard labor. He was a prosecution witness against the Texan.

Wright made public yesterday a letter of resignation he sent to Paul Wakefield, state Selective Service director, in Austin, Tex. It said in part:

"MY CONSCIENCE will not let me be a part of drafting young men who might later be subject to the severe punishment that was rendered Cpl. Claude Batchelor.

"Although I can not tolerate any one who would collaborate with Communists, I am still of the opinion that the court did not take into consideration that this boy was only 16 years old when he entered military service and that you and I know that a large per cent of the older men could not stand up under the severe punishment and brain washing that the Communists are able to force upon their prisoners."

Court Okays O&W Station's Sale

New York, Oct. 6 (Special)—The bankrupt Ontario and Western Railway received court permission today to sell its Kingston passenger station to the Herzog Supply Company which has been using the building as a warehouse.

Robert Herzog of Kingston bid $18,500 for the property today. His bid was $500 higher then a competing bidder had offered. Herzog paid $500 down on the property.

THE SALE IS SUBJECT to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission to remove the railroad tracks still on the property.

Herzog said his company may build an additional warehouse on the grounds.

Elbert Oakes, attorney for the trustee of the O & W said that one or two unspecified branch lines will be abandoned by the road. He said negotiations are underway with New York state officials and the state may buy the right of way of these branch lines for highway purposes.

IF THE SALE goes through, he said, the O & W may realize a large profit. He pointed out, however, that these lines will be abandoned whether there is a sale, because they are unprofitable.

The abandonment must be approved by the ICC. An application will be made within a few months.

Administration May Await French Assembly Action

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration probably will wait until after the French Assembly has acted before it asks the Senate to approve agreements making Germany a partner in the Atlantic alliance.

That would mean that the package deal worked out in London last week would not be presented before the new session of Congress beginning in January.

Chairman Wiley (R.-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee predicted yesterday that the agreements, insofar as they require U. S. action, would be approved at special session next month if they were submitted by that time.

However, there is a strong feeling among State Department officials that the United States should not take the lead in giving final approval to the London plan, as is did in 1952 in confirming the European Defense Community (EDC) program.

The French Assembly stalled on that until last month, when it finally killed off EDC. The Tillson, Oct. 6—The first fall meeting of the Tillson School Association is planned to take place Thursday at Tillson School, starting at 8 p. m.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Tillson Reformed Church will take place Friday at the church hall at 8 p. m.

Starfish Like Oysters

Starfish pull oyster shells apart, using suction cups on starfish arms and then turn themselves inside out to absorb the flesh of the oyster.

BAZOOKAMAN DIGS IN—A Belgian soldier sets himself behind his bazooka during the "Battle Royal" maneuvers, biggest staged in Germany since World War II. More than 140,000 soldiers from England, U. S., and Canada took part in the military games near Sennelager.

Pancake Tickets To Be Sold Oct. 18 At Every Home

Tickets for the giant pancake dinner October 28 at Kingston Municipal Auditorium will be sold from door to door, it was announced today by Rodney DuBois, chairman of the event to help raise funds to promote the annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association here next June.

DuBois said a house to house sale is to take place Monday, Oct. 18, so everybody may get a chance to purchase them, and thus help the firemen, who give their services free to keep the community's fire insurance rates down.

ON MANY OCCASIONS Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the paid fire department has credited the volunteers with keeping the rates from skyrocketing. "Our volunteers are doing a fine job for the city," the professional fire-fighter has said on many occasions in thanking them for their cooperation with Kingston's paid department.

DuBois said that many tickets have been sold and advised that more had to be printed to supply the demand. "But," he added, "we'd like to have overflow crowds, and feel that nobody wants to miss the dinners."

Servings will be from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. on the October 28 date, and again in the evening, starting at 5 o'clock. Volunteers at the griddles will keep right on baking until everybody has eaten, DuBois said.

GETTING READY for the dinner is a monstrous task, and serving the pancakes will be a comparable chore, but the volunteers are set on making their convention a real success and won't spare any time or effort, DuBois said.

Chief Murphy, who recalls that this is the 200th anniversary of the volunteer fire organization in Kingston, said he felt sure the public will be out en masse for the pancake festival." Buying tickets is one medium of showing appreciation for the service our volunteers give the city," he remarked, "and I'm sure everybody wants to do just that."

THE THREE-DAY convention in June is expected to bring approximtely 125 volunteer companies here, and the parade on the final day should be one of the biggest since the last Hudson valley convention in 1928, when approximately 120 marched.

An added attraction at the pancake dinner, and the day previous, will be the appearance of Aunt Jemima, singing star of starge, radio and television, who represents the company that is giving the pancake flour free of charge to the firemen to help them promote this convention.

Pancake Tickets To Be Sold Oct. 18 At Every Home

Tickets for the giant pancake dinner October 28 at Kingston Municipal Auditorium will be sold from door to door, it was announced today by Rodney DuBois, chairman of the event to help raise funds to promote the annual convention of the Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association here next June.

DuBois said a house to house sale is to take place Monday, Oct. 18, so everybody may get a chance to purchase them, and thus help the firemen, who give their services free to keep the community's fire insurance rates down.

ON MANY OCCASIONS Chief Joseph L. Murphy of the paid fire department has credited the volunteers with keeping the rates from skyrocketing. "Our volunteers are doing a fine job for the city," the professional fire-fighter has said on many occasions in thanking them for their cooperation with Kingston's paid department.

DuBois said that many tickets have been sold and advised that more had to be printed to supply the demand. "But," he added, "we'd like to have overflow crowds, and feel that nobody wants to miss the dinners."

Servings will be from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. on the October 28 date, and again in the evening, starting at 5 o'clock. Volunteers at the griddles will keep right on baking until everybody has eaten, DuBois said.

GETTING READY for the dinner is a monstrous task, and serving the pancakes will be a comparable chore, but the volunteers are set on making their convention a real success and won't spare any time or effort, DuBois said.

Chief Murphy, who recalls that this is the 200th anniversary of the volunteer fire organization in Kingston, said he felt sure the public will be out en masse for the pancake festival." Buying tickets is one medium of showing appreciation for the service our volunteers give the city," he remarked, "and I'm sure everybody wants to do just that."

THE THREE-DAY convention in June is expected to bring approximtely 125 volunteer companies here, and the parade on the final day should be one of the biggest since the last Hudson valley convention in 1928, when approximately 120 marched.

An added attraction at the pancake dinner, and the day previous, will be the appearance of Aunt Jemima, singing star of starge, radio and television, who represents the company that is giving the pancake flour free of charge to the firemen to help them promote this convention.

VOTERS' QUALIFICATIONS

Qualifications for voters at the general election in November should be born in mind by all persons who seek to register and vote if they have recently moved or changed their residence.

A person must be a resident of the state for one year, reside four months in the county and be a resident of the election district for 30 days prior to election.

First voters must be at least 21 on the day following election day. If you are a first voter you must present a grammar school, or higher, diploma or take a literacy test. In districts outside the City of Kingston, the election inspectors may give literacy tests. In Kingston literacy tests will be given at the high school and dates and places of such tests may be obtained by calling the high school or the Board of Elections.

Many people are not familiar with their polling place location, or are not sure in which district or ward they should vote. This information may be obtained by calling the Board of Elections, phone 1115, and the location of the polling place and registration place may be obtained.

Every voter should remember you must be registered in order to vote on election day. Personal registration is required in Kingston. Outside the city you may give your name to a party worker and he can register for you.

There are numerous requirements and qualifications for military voters. This information may be obtained from the Board of Elections. October 23 is the first day for military voters who did not previously apply for military ballot to make application in person at the Board of Elections office.

Any information regarding registration, enrollment, voting an absentee ballot or relative to the dates and hours of registration may be obtained from the Ulster County Board of Elections. The office is open during the regular office hours and on the days of registration all day until the polls close.

A fellow we work with says that 1954 has proved to be a year of startling surprises. A Democrat was elected Governor of Maine, the Yankees did not get into the World Series and his wife was early for an appointment with him twice.

THE SECOND GARFIELD

Theodore Roosevelt must figure largely in the letters and papers left by James R. Garfield and now received by the Library of Congress. Garfield, son of the president, early decided that through his father he had the opportunity and the obligation to become a public figure, so he began at 10 to keep a diary. At his death at 85, in 1950, the diary had reached 64 volumes. Included in the bequest were 20,000 letters and scrapbooks, providing exhaustive materials for a study of Garfield and his times.

Garfield was Roosevelt's Secretary of the Interior, and a member of his co-called "tennis cabinet," which combined athletics with conferences on public matters. He was the last survivor of this group.

The break between Roosevelt and William H. Taft arose largely because Taft failed to continue Garfield in the cabinet. When the Republicans split between the two in 1912, Garfield followed Roosevelt. With him he later returned to the GOP, and apparently regretted his one departure from party regularity.

Automobile colors, we are told, are getting brighter and brighter. Would that motorists could do the same!

What form should rewards take for research workers who achieve outstanding results. This question was discussed by executives at the Research Administrators conference held at New York University recently. Monetary rewards are not enough, the speakers said, and there is too often a long delay between an achievement and recognition for the person responsible.

The delay is natural because it takes time for the importance of a discovery to be evaluated. But the delay does nothing to encourage the researcher to new efforts.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

ATONEMENT

Each year at this time, the Jews celebrate Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. Rabbi Moses Gaster wrote: ". . . According to Holy Writ this day is established for the purpose of bringing home to us the consciousness of human weakness and frailty, of sin and transgression, and by means of self-imposed affliction and repentence to turn us from the evil ways which we have pursued in the course of the year, and to lead us, through prayers and confessions, to the gates of Heaven, there to obtain mercy and forgiveness. . . ."

For the Jews, it is a day of fasting, during the whole of which, they remain in their synagogues in prayer and contemplation. For no man is without sin. No man is without moral failings. No man is beyond confession of wrong. No man is without hope of forgiveness.

This ancient holy day of confession and supplication humbles the proud of position or of purse. In the recitation of the identical prayers, all assume an equality and humility before God. At one point, the prayers of this day read:

"Our God, and the God of our fathers! may our prayer come before thee, and hide not thyself from our supplications; for we are not so arrogant, or so hardened, as to declare before thee, O Lord, our God, and the God of our fathers! that we are righteous, and have not sinned. Verily, we have sinned, we, and our fathers. We have trespassed, we have dealt treacherously, we have robbed, we have spoken slander, we have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly; we have acted presumptuously, we have committed violence, we have forged falsehood, we have counselled evil, we have uttered lies, we have scoffed, we have rebelled, we have blasphemed, we have revolted, we have acted perversely, we have transgressed, we have oppressed, we have been stiff-necked, we have acted wickedly, we have corrupted, we have done abominably; we have gone astray ourselves, and have caused others to err; we have turned aside from thy good precepts and commandments, and we have not heeded them; 'But thou art just concerning all that is come upon us; for thou hast dealt most truly, but we have done wickedly.'"

Who is to say in this unfortunate age that humility is not a virtue to be restored to man? We have grown proud of our great knowledge; yet what do we really know? We can make a hydrogen bomb that outshines the sun, but do we know how to live in a world without war? We produce fissions and fusions beyond the maddest dreams of the alchemists, but do we know how to live in truth with each other?

We have complicated our lives by mechanization and urbanization; our buildings grow higher and larger; the motors we use, from shaving our faces to transporting us around the earth, become more numerous and more complex. But society is disturbed because it has veered from traditional morality. Homes are broken by lust and children become wayward for lack of parental jurisdiction and love. Who is to justify the degradation of the characters of young children by the wilful waywardness of their parents?

It used to be that the judges and prophets spoke with fearless frankness even to rulers and despots. "Thou art the man!" Nathan shouted and the King quivered before the power of truth.

The 11th century poet, Solomon ben Gabirol wrote passionately for this Day of Atonement and I take from his "Royal Crown" only two sentences which fit our times:

". . . But thou didst greatly exceed all this when thou didst vouchsafe to give me a perfect creed, to believe, that thou art the God of Truth and that thy prophets are true, and when thou didst not place my portion among those who rise up and rebel against thee; among the foolish people who blaspheme thy name; who deride thy law; chide thy servants, and deny the truth of thy prophets. They assume innocence, but underneath is deceit; they make a show of a pure and clean soul, whilst the bright spots of the leper are concealed underneath. . . ."

If only we could see what we have been doing these few decades to degrade Man, we might reverse an ugly trend and return to the Moral Law which alone can guide us to the good life.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

EFFECTS OF HEAT ON THE BODY

As there exists some confusion regarding the effects of exposure of the body to heat, let us consider two conditions resulting from exposure to heat — heat stroke and heat exhaustion. These two conditions, although both resulting from heat, are very different in their symptoms.

Heat stroke results from the breakdown of the heat-regulation mechanism of the body resulting from exposure to high temperature, high humidity, absence of air movement, unsuitable clothing, and muscular exertion. It is therefore more common in those unused to heat, in fat people, and in alcoholics. Although there may be forerunning symptoms such as headache and drowsiness, the patient is usually unconscious or delirious when first seen by the physician. The temperature by mouth may be as high as 110° F.; the skin is hot, dry, and flushed; both the pulse and breathing rate are increased; there are large amounts of dilute urine passed.

The outlook for the patient depends upon how high the temperature was and how long it remained high. Death may occur in 24 hours or may be delayed as long as 12 days. The treatment of heat stroke is reducing the temperature as quickly as possible, even before removing him to a hospital. The skin must be kept moist and fanned to encourage perspiration. It is always safe to give salt and water by mouth if the patient can keep it down.

Heat exhaustion has different symptoms. The skin is cold, moist and inelastic. Sufferers complain of intense headache, loss of appetite, cramps, and vomiting. Pulse is thin and rapid and blood pressure is low. The amount of urine passed is less than normal. The body lacks water and salt. Constipation is often present. Heat exhaustion often appears late in the season, after the individual has gone through a prolonged spell of hot weather. The temperature by mouth ranges from 99 to 102 degrees; the high fever of heat stroke does not appear in heat exhaustion because sweating is never completely cut off. Treatment of heat exhaustion consists in replacing in the body the water and salt which has been lost, by injection into the veins if necessary. It is sometimes necessary to remove patients to a cooler climate. Recovery is prompt and death is quite unusual.

We are all familiar with sunburn and should guard against it by exposing ourselves to the sun in gradual doses. Creams which filter out the ultraviolet waves, such as 5 per cent tannic acid, 10 per cent para-amino-benzoic acid, 5 per cent quinine hydrochloride made up as vanishing cream afford some protection. The antihistamine drugs, used to combat allergy or sensitiveness to various substances, usually relieve discomfort, taken by mouth.

Washington—(NEA) — U. S. Army has come up with an embarrassing discovery about its cutback on the number of students in officer candidate schools.

When the students began their course, they were all given a special psychological test to determine which men would show the best qualities of leadership. A little later, along came an order to cut down the number of students. This was done by tightening discipline. The toughness of the course caused a number of the students to drop out voluntarily. They just couldn't take it.

When this harsh cut had been made, however, it was discovered that the men who had been forced out were those who had the highest scores on the leadership test. The "conformists," who knuckled under to the more rugged discipline and who thereafter completed the course, were the students who had the lower leadership grades.

TEAMSTERS' union President Dave Beck is considerably irked by the fact that no labor representatives were put on the Cabinet Committee on Transport Policy, recently appointed by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks. It includes traffic managers of several large corporations, a couple of New York attorneys and a college professor.

This is a first hint of trouble ahead for this group which is supposed to file a report by Dec. 1. President Eisenhower created the committee after the railroads presented him with a list of gripes on "Government Policies Which Adversely Affect the Railroads." On the list were such things as diversion of mail to trucks, airline subsidies, federal support for river and harbor contruction.

B. M. Seymour, president of Associated Transport, Roy Freuhauf of the trailer company and Walter B. Carey of American Trucking Assn. have joined Beck in his protest. Both sides seem to agree that the committee's report will cause further uproar between railroads and truckers, since it can not possibly please everybody.

WILLIAM STOEFFHAAS, an official of the Arnold Schwinn Bicycle Company, one of the oldest in the U. S., was in town recently appearing before the Tariff Commission to try to get higher duties to protect the U.S. bike industry against damaging foreign competition.

During the proceedings he was asked whether the foreign competitors weren't successful because they had introduced innovations in the bicycles they were selling.

In reply Stoeffhaas wheeled in Schwinn's 1,000,000th bike, manufactured in 1916, and pointed out the startling similarity between it and the English type bike of today. He said: "In this country handlebar brakes are about as modern as handlebar mustaches. However, it may very well be true that they are the latest word in England."

FOR A LONG TIME the Army has sizzled behind the scenes over the kind of ground support the Air Force has provided to its troops. But the dispute has now come into the open with an article in the semi-official publication, the U. S. Army Combat Forces Journal. Author of the piece, which lays the problem open, is Col. George C. Reinhardt, a regular Army officer and noted writer on military problems.

His radical proposal is to give the mission of aerial support of army ground forces to the navy and marines. "It will permit the air force to concentrate on its two monumental responsibilities: strategic bombing and air defense of the U. S., he writes.

"And it doesn't entail strange new responsibilities for sea power, since navy-marine corps air already operate a highly efficient tactical air setup," he claims.

VICE PRESIDENT Nixon's campaign trip around the country caught the air force with its protocol down and sent the Pentagon into a temporary flap. The air force knew he was planning to fly in a private plane so the brass didn't concern themselves with the trip until it was discovered that the V. P. planned to arrive at numerous air force bases around the U. S. where no commercial fields were available.

Regardless of what the purpose of the visit is, when the vice president of the United States lands at an air force field the local commander is usually expected to provide some kind of a formal ceremony. That's what caught the air force by surprise. No provision had been made for this.

The day before Nixon left on the trip, however, the air force got him on the 'phone and explained their problem. "By all means skip any ceremonies," he requested. "Just tell them not to try to shoot me down as my plane approaches," he added.

Conclusions on Oppenheimer Receive Serious Support From Physical Scientists

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 6—Quite a furor is being stirred up because some of the top scientists in the country are being criticized for their laxity in developing the H-bomb.

Judged by some of the comments being made in support of those scientists, it might be imagined that, unless these men are immunized from criticism hereafter, they will engage in a sit-down strike and refuse to serve their country.

But there is evidence that not all scientists believe that a man who lies to his own government on a vital security matter, when information is sought from him, is a hero. There are scientists who believe that morality does not stop at the laboratory door—nor honesty either.

Lest the country think that scientists with Communist connections or affiliations or sympathies are in the majority inside or outside the government, evidence is presented here which paints an entirely different picture. Thus a top scientist, whose identity must for the present be withheld, says in a letter to this correspondent:

"In the recent particularly trying case of Dr. Oppenheimer, your analysis of the situation and the conclusions you have reached are receiving more support among physical scientists than you perhaps realize. They are not so vocal as those on the other side, nor are they given so much to passing resolutions, but plenty of them exist and form an influential group.

"I have had many contacts with nuclear physicists at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California. I came to know Dr. Oppenheimer and served upon committees with him. He impressed me as a person of very pleasant personality and enormous ability in his field, but also as a case of almost arrested development in social problems and in his relation to constituted authority. Like Einstein, he seemed to be governed by his emotions rather than his reason in such matters, and I am not at all surprise at what has finally happened.

"The Oppenheimer case leads me to a few remarks about the large group, mainly in the colleges and universities, who call themselves 'liberals' — a much abused word — and sometimes 'intellectuals,' but the irreverent public calls them 'pinks' and on occasion 'eggheads.'

"They are an amazingly inconsistent group. They make a good living out of the system of private enterprise, but then seek to undermine it by favoring all sorts of socialistic ventures and enterprises. They dislike intensely McCarthy and his methods—as we all do—but go along with him in allowing individuals to set up their own standards of secrecy, regardless of governmental and military regulations.

"They learn nothing from experience, and the leakage of information about the atomic bomb and the loss of China, in part at least through leftist sympathizers in the Department of State, have never been taken to heart by them. Apparently, too, they have no conception of the distinction between what a man may believe and practice as a private individual and what he may believe and practice in a public position of trust. Although a man's beliefs are normally a matter of private concern, they can well debar him from many positions he might like to hold. For example, we can hardly conceive that the directors of a bank would elect to its presidency a believer in Marxian theories of finance and economics.

"There are two brief quotations which I feel might well be recommended to the collegiate self-styled 'liberals' of this country. The first is by Winston Churchill and, as I remember, it runs: 'Although socialism and communism are not the same thing, I have always found that communism flourishes in an atmosphere of socialism.'

"The second quotation goes back to Socrates and the Athens of his day. His pet abhorrence was a group of well-educated men who, to show their assumed intellectual superiority, utilized their abilities to twist and distort the beliefs and motives of the common people until they were unrecognizable. Socrates said of these 'sophists,' as he called them: 'They delight to make the worse the better reason.'"

The author of the foregoing letter was head of an important scientific body for many years, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, a member of the French Academy and a foreign associate of the Royal Society of London and an outstanding scientist in his field.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 5—The Roosevelt-Lehman Democratic party, which is non-nationalist at least and anti-nationalist in its extremes, has nominated Averell Harriman for governor of New York. He will not be elected because Senator Irving Ives, the Republican nominee, is a party liner, which means that he throws in with Eisenhower and the rest of the less-and-less American Republican organization. Thus he nullifies Harriman's advantage. You may call Ives a nationalist if you will, but when you say that smile!

Foreign policy should be no issue in a state election but nationalism, or patriotism, has become a handicap in the state, and especially in the city, of New York. It is called isolationism and is held to be a composition of bigotry and other undefined but abhorrent faults. The Republicans bow to this blackmail.

Harriman is the son of a very rich father who never did anything for his fortune but deal in stocks. Averell is a figure in the developing jig-saw pattern of "Philip Dru: Administrator," the prophetic political novel which Col. E. M. House, the "internationalist" political adventurer from Texas, conjured in 1911 and published anonymously.

Later, House admitted that he wrote this plan for total dictatorship long before Lenin and Trotsky, Mussolini and Hitler were heard of. House, like Harriman, was the idle, rich son of a rich father, an Englishman of Dutch "blood" who had profiteered as a blockade runner out of Galveston in the Civil War. The rich English clients of Colonel House's father also made money out of the cotton thus delivered to them at the risk and sacrifice of the lives of many southern and British sailors on the ships. House, senior, sat ashore with a marine glass and watched the blockade runners take their chances with the Union patrol ships. Colonel House was pro-British in the first war but the essence of his philosophy was hatred of the Constitution of the United States. In Philip Dru, House fairly drooled his satisfaction over a bloody revolution which first smashed the American army and nullified the Constitution. He was an intimate advisor of Woodrow Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt.

The Federal Reserve System was one of the "reforms" projected in "Philip Dru."

Harriman's father, E. H. Harriman, was raised to fabulous riches by two individual Banking patrons, both giants of the house of Kuhn-Loeb.

B. C. Forbes, a well-known acolyte of big business, wrote a book in 1917 called "Men Who Are Making America" in which he lauded in extravagant terms a roster of bankers and industrialists. They included the elder Morgan, Carnegie, Frick, Paul M. Warburg and Jacob H. Schiff. These last two were born in Germany and trained in the great financial center of Hamburg. In the United States they married daughters of Solomon Loeb, of Kuhn-Loeb, and became great world powers.

In his Warburg biography, Forbes wrote that "a party of the nation's greatest bankers stole out of New York in a private car, hied to an island deserted by all but a few servants and there lived a full week under such rigid secrecy that the name of not one of them was mentioned lest the servitors learn their identity and disclose to the world this historic episode in American finance." This "historic episode" was the preparation of the "famous Aldrich currency report." Forbes says Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, the father of the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was the real author, although Warburg was widely suspected and noisly berated. Other participants were Henry P. Davison, Frank Vanderlip and A. Piatt Andrew. The meeting place was Jekyl Island, Ga. These mighty masters of man "were landed in a small boat."

In the Schiff biography, Forbes wrote: "When Edward Harriman, the stock exchange broker, began to dabble in railroad properties, he had neither experience nor capital. But he had almost infallible judgment, the vision of a statesman. * * * Jacob H. Schiff was one of the first financiers to recognize that a new railroad Napoleon was entering the arena.

"Union Pacific was a battered, bankrupt, decrepit stretch of rust. Few capitalists had faith in its possibilities. But Mr. Schiff's faith in the future of the United States was as strong then as it is today and he took up the reorganizing of Union Pacific. Harriman came knocking at the door and, discerning in him a genius, Mr. Schiff extended the prestige and resources of Kuhn-Loeb and Co."

Harriman and the bankers acquired enormous quantities of shares "at a song." Within 10 years it "netted a fortune for all its large holders." It later paid an annual dividend equal to the original cost.

"Southern-Pacific and other railroads were corraled later," Forbes continued. The Harriman-Kuhn-Loeb combination became "the most powerful, the most aggressive and the most successful America had ever known." Harriman made more than $10 million a year in the latter part of his life, free of income tax. He left more than $70 million free of estate tax when he died in 1909. Schiff's wealth was "estimated" at little less.

In the Warburg biography, Forbes wrote that "the strokes that followed one another" in the Harriman developments, were "so bold, daring and original" that "they caused the country to gasp."

With this massive inherited fortune, Averell Harriman apparently took a lavish, aggressive part in lend-lease, especially in Russia where he was "administrator," a word that Roosevelt loved, as we shall see in further chapters of this secret history of the stealthy realization of House's malevolent dream.

Altogether, the American people including men fighting the enemy, and their families at home, gave $11 billion worth of lend-lease to Russia alone. Not a dime of this ever came back nor ever will.

VOTERS' QUALIFICATIONS

Qualifications for voters at the general election in November should be born in mind by all persons who seek to register and vote if they have recently moved or changed their residence.

A person must be a resident of the state for one year, reside four months in the county and be a resident of the election district for 30 days prior to election.

First voters must be at least 21 on the day following election day. If you are a first voter you must present a grammar school, or higher, diploma or take a literacy test. In districts outside the City of Kingston, the election inspectors may give literacy tests. In Kingston literacy tests will be given at the high school and dates and places of such tests may be obtained by calling the high school or the Board of Elections.

Many people are not familiar with their polling place location, or are not sure in which district or ward they should vote. This information may be obtained by calling the Board of Elections, phone 1115, and the location of the polling place and registration place may be obtained.

Every voter should remember you must be registered in order to vote on election day. Personal registration is required in Kingston. Outside the city you may give your name to a party worker and he can register for you.

There are numerous requirements and qualifications for military voters. This information may be obtained from the Board of Elections. October 23 is the first day for military voters who did not previously apply for military ballot to make application in person at the Board of Elections office.

Any information regarding registration, enrollment, voting an absentee ballot or relative to the dates and hours of registration may be obtained from the Ulster County Board of Elections. The office is open during the regular office hours and on the days of registration all day until the polls close.

THE SECOND GARFIELD

Theodore Roosevelt must figure largely in the letters and papers left by James R. Garfield and now received by the Library of Congress. Garfield, son of the president, early decided that through his father he had the opportunity and the obligation to become a public figure, so he began at 10 to keep a diary. At his death at 85, in 1950, the diary had reached 64 volumes. Included in the bequest were 20,000 letters and scrapbooks, providing exhaustive materials for a study of Garfield and his times.

Garfield was Roosevelt's Secretary of the Interior, and a member of his co-called "tennis cabinet," which combined athletics with conferences on public matters. He was the last survivor of this group.

The break between Roosevelt and William H. Taft arose largely because Taft failed to continue Garfield in the cabinet. When the Republicans split between the two in 1912, Garfield followed Roosevelt. With him he later returned to the GOP, and apparently regretted his one departure from party regularity.

What form should rewards take for research workers who achieve outstanding results. This question was discussed by executives at the Research Administrators conference held at New York University recently. Monetary rewards are not enough, the speakers said, and there is too often a long delay between an achievement and recognition for the person responsible. The delay is natural because it takes time for the importance of a discovery to be evaluated. But the delay does nothing to encourage the researcher to new efforts.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

ATONEMENT

Each year at this time, the Jews celebrate Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. Rabbi Moses Gaster wrote: ". . . According to Holy Writ this day is established for the purpose of bringing home to us the consciousness of human weakness and frailty, of sin and transgression, and by means of self-imposed affliction and repentence to turn us from the evil ways which we have pursued in the course of the year, and to lead us, through prayers and confessions, to the gates of Heaven, there to obtain mercy and forgiveness. . . ."

For the Jews, it is a day of fasting, during the whole of which, they remain in their synagogues in prayer and contemplation. For no man is without sin. No man is without moral failings. No man is beyond confession of wrong. No man is without hope of forgiveness.

This ancient holy day of confession and supplication humbles the proud of position or of purse. In the recitation of the identical prayers, all assume an equality and humility before God. At one point, the prayers of this day read:

"Our God, and the God of our fathers! may our prayer come before thee, and hide not thyself from our supplications; for we are not so arrogant, or so hardened, as to declare before thee, O Lord, our God, and the God of our fathers! that we are righteous, and have not sinned. Verily, we have sinned, we, and our fathers. We have trespassed, we have dealt treacherously, we have robbed, we have spoken slander, we have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly; we have acted presumptuously, we have committed violence, we have forged falsehood, we have counselled evil, we have uttered lies, we have scoffed, we have rebelled, we have blasphemed, we have revolted, we have acted perversely, we have transgressed, we have oppressed, we have been stiff-necked, we have acted wickedly, we have corrupted, we have done abominably; we have gone astray ourselves, and have caused others to err; we have turned aside from thy good precepts and commandments, and we have not heeded them; 'But thou art just concerning all that is come upon us; for thou hast dealt most truly, but we have done wickedly.'"

Who is to say in this unfortunate age that humility is not a virtue to be restored to man? We have grown proud of our great knowledge; yet what do we really know? We can make a hydrogen bomb that outshines the sun, but do we know how to live in a world without war? We produce fissions and fusions beyond the maddest dreams of the alchemists, but do we know how to live in truth with each other?

We have complicated our lives by mechanization and urbanization; our buildings grow higher and larger; the motors we use, from shaving our faces to transporting us around the earth, become more numerous and more complex. But society is disturbed because it has veered from traditional morality. Homes are broken by lust and children become wayward for lack of parental jurisdiction and love. Who is to justify the degradation of the characters of young children by the wilful waywardness of their parents?

It used to be that the judges and prophets spoke with fearless frankness even to rulers and despots. "Thou art the man!" Nathan shouted and the King quivered before the power of truth.

The 11th century poet, Solomon ben Gabirol wrote passionately for this Day of Atonement and I take from his "Royal Crown" only two sentences which fit our times:

". . . But thou didst greatly exceed all this when thou didst vouchsafe to give me a perfect creed, to believe, that thou art the God of Truth and that thy prophets are true, and when thou didst not place my portion among those who rise up and rebel against thee; among the foolish people who blaspheme thy name; who deride thy law; chide thy servants, and deny the truth of thy prophets. They assume innocence, but underneath is deceit; they make a show of a pure and clean soul, whilst the bright spots of the leper are concealed underneath. . . ."

If only we could see what we have been doing these few decades to degrade Man, we might reverse an ugly trend and return to the Moral Law which alone can guide us to the good life.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

EFFECTS OF HEAT ON THE BODY

As there exists some confusion regarding the effects of exposure of the body to heat, let us consider two conditions resulting from exposure to heat — heat stroke and heat exhaustion. These two conditions, although both resulting from heat, are very different in their symptoms.

Heat stroke results from the breakdown of the heat-regulation mechanism of the body resulting from exposure to high temperature, high humidity, absence of air movement, unsuitable clothing, and muscular exertion. It is therefore more common in those unused to heat, in fat people, and in alcoholics. Although there may be forerunning symptoms such as headache and drowsiness, the patient is usually unconscious or delirious when first seen by the physician. The temperature by mouth may be as high as 110° F.; the skin is hot, dry, and flushed; both the pulse and breathing rate are increased; there are large amounts of dilute urine passed.

The outlook for the patient depends upon how high the temperature was and how long it remained high. Death may occur in 24 hours or may be delayed as long as 12 days. The treatment of heat stroke is reducing the temperature as quickly as possible, even before removing him to a hospital. The skin must be kept moist and fanned to encourage perspiration. It is always safe to give salt and water by mouth if the patient can keep it down.

Heat exhaustion has different symptoms. The skin is cold, moist and inelastic. Sufferers complain of intense headache, loss of appetite, cramps, and vomiting. Pulse is thin and rapid and blood pressure is low. The amount of urine passed is less than normal. The body lacks water and salt. Constipation is often present. Heat exhaustion often appears late in the season, after the individual has gone through a prolonged spell of hot weather. The temperature by mouth ranges from 99 to 102 degrees; the high fever of heat stroke does not appear in heat exhaustion because sweating is never completely cut off. Treatment of heat exhaustion consists in replacing in the body the water and salt which has been lost, by injection into the veins if necessary. It is sometimes necessary to remove patients to a cooler climate. Recovery is prompt and death is quite unusual.

We are all familiar with sunburn and should guard against it by exposing ourselves to the sun in gradual doses. Creams which filter out the ultraviolet waves, such as 5 per cent tannic acid, 10 per cent para-amino-benzoic acid, 5 per cent quinine hydrochloride made up as vanishing cream afford some protection. The antihistamine drugs, used to combat allergy or sensitiveness to various substances, usually relieve discomfort, taken by mouth.

They are not so vocal as those on the other side, nor are they given so much to passing resolutions, but plenty of them exist and form an influential group.

"I have had many contacts with nuclear physicists at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California. I came to know Dr. Oppenheimer and served upon committees with him. He impressed me as a person of very pleasant personality and enormous ability in his field, but also as a case of almost arrested development in social problems and in his relation to constituted authority. Like Einstein, he seemed to be governed by his emotions rather than his reason in such matters, and I am not at all surprise at what has finally happened.

"The Oppenheimer case leads me to a few remarks about the large group, mainly in the colleges and universities, who call themselves 'liberals' — a much abused word — and sometimes 'intellectuals,' but the irreverent public calls them 'pinks' and on occasion "eggheads.'

"They are an amazingly inconsistent group. They make a good living out of the system of private enterprise, but then seek to undermine it by favoring all sorts of socialistic ventures and enterprises. They dislike intensely McCarthy and his methods—as we all do—but go along with him in allowing individuals to set up their own standards of secrecy, regardless of governmental and military regulations.

"They learn nothing from experience, and the leakage of information about the atomic bomb and the loss of China, in part at least through leftist sympathizers in the Department of State, have never been taken to heart by them. Apparently, too, they have no conception of the distinction between what a man may believe and practice as a private individual and what he may believe and practice in a public position of trust. Although a man's beliefs are normally a matter of private concern, they can well debar him from many positions he might like to hold. For example, we can hardly conceive that the directors of a bank would elect to its presidency a believer in Marxian theories of finance and economics.

"There are two brief quotations which I feel might well be recommended to the collegiate self-styled 'liberals' of this country. The first is by Winston Churchill and, as I remember, it runs: 'Although socialism and communism are not the same thing, I have always found that communism flourishes in an atmosphere of socialism.'

"The second quotation goes back to Socrates and the Athens of his day. His pet abhorrence was a group of well-educated men who, to show their assumed intellectual superiority, utilized their abilities to twist and distort the beliefs and motives of the common people until they were unrecognizable. Socrates said of these 'sophists,' as he called them: 'They delight to make the worse the better reason.'"

The author of the foregoing letter was head of an important scientific body for many years, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, a member of the French Academy and a foreign associate of the Royal Society of London and an outstanding scientist in his field.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 5—The Roosevelt-Lehman Democratic party, which is non-nationalist at least and anti-nationalist in its extremes, has nominated Averell Harriman for governor of New York. He will not be elected because Senator Irving Ives, the Republican nominee, is a party liner, which means that he throws in with Eisenhower and the rest of the less-and-less American Republican organization. Thus he nullifies Harriman's advantage. You may call Ives a nationalist if you will, but when you say that smile!

Foreign policy should be no issue in a state election but nationalism, or patriotism, has become a handicap in the state, and especially in the city, of New York. It is called isolationism and is held to be a composition of bigotry and other undefined but abhorrent faults. The Republicans bow to this blackmail.

Harriman is the son of a very rich father who never did anything for his fortune but deal in stocks. Averell is a figure in the developing jig-saw pattern of "Philip Dru: Administrator," the prophetic political novel which Col. E. M. House, the "internationalist" political adventurer from Texas, conjured in 1911 and published anonymously.

Later, House admitted that he wrote this plan for total dictatorship long before Lenin and Trotsky, Mussolini and Hitler were heard of. House, like Harriman, was the idle, rich son of a rich father, an Englishman of Dutch "blood" who had profiteered as a blockade runner out of Galveston in the Civil War. The rich English clients of Colonel House's father also made money out of the cotton thus delivered to them at the risk and sacrifice of the lives of many southern and British sailors on the ships. House, senior, sat ashore with a marine glass and watched the blockade runners take their chances with the Union patrol ships. Colonel House was pro-British in the first war but the essence of his philosophy was hatred of the Constitution of the United States. In Philip Dru, House fairly drooled his satisfaction over a bloody revolution which first smashed the American army and nullified the Constitution. He was an intimate advisor of Woodrow Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt.

The Federal Reserve System was one of the "reforms" projected in "Philip Dru."

Harriman's father, E. H. Harriman, was raised to fabulous riches by two individual Banking patrons, both giants of the house of Kuhn-Loeb.

B. C. Forbes, a well-known acolyte of big business, wrote a book in 1917 called "Men Who Are Making America" in which he lauded in extravagant terms a roster of bankers and industrialists. They included the elder Morgan, Carnegie, Frick, Paul M. Warburg and Jacob H. Schiff. These last two were born in Germany and trained in the great financial center of Hamburg. In the United States they married daughters of Solomon Loeb, of Kuhn-Loeb, and became great world powers.

In his Warburg biography, Forbes wrote that "a party of the nation's greatest bankers stole out of New York in a private car, hied to an island deserted by all but a few servants and there lived a full week under such rigid secrecy that the name of not one of them was mentioned lest the servitors learn their identity and disclose to the world this historic episode in American finance." This "historic episode" was the preparation of the "famous Aldrich currency report." Forbes says Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, the father of the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was the real author, although Warburg was widely suspected and noisly berated. Other participants were Henry P. Davison, Frank Vanderlip and A. Piatt Andrew. The meeting place was Jekyl Island, Ga. These mighty masters of man "were landed in a small boat."

In the Schiff biography, Forbes wrote: "When Edward Harriman, the stock exchange broker, began to dabble in railroad properties, he had neither experience nor capital. But he had almost infallible judgment, the vision of a statesman. * * * Jacob H. Schiff was one of the first financiers to recognize that a new railroad Napoleon was entering the arena.

"Union Pacific was a battered, bankrupt, decrepit stretch of rust. Few capitalists had faith in its possibilities. But Mr. Schiff's faith in the future of the United States was as strong then as it is today and he took up the reorganizing of Union Pacific. Harriman came knocking at the door and, discerning in him a genius, Mr. Schiff extended the prestige and resources of Kuhn-Loeb and Co."

Harriman and the bankers acquired enormous quantities of shares "at a song." Within 10 years it "netted a fortune for all its large holders." It later paid an annual dividend equal to the original cost.

"Southern-Pacific and other railroads were corraled later," Forbes continued. The Harriman-Kuhn-Loeb combination became "the most powerful, the most aggressive and the most successful America had ever known." Harriman made more than $10 million a year in the latter part of his life, free of income tax. He left more than $70 million free of estate tax when he died in 1909. Schiff's wealth was "estimated" at little less.

In the Warburg biography, Forbes wrote that "the strokes that followed one another" in the Harriman developments, were "so bold, daring and original" that "they caused the country to gasp."

With this massive inherited fortune, Averell Harriman apparently took a lavish, aggressive part in lend-lease, especially in Russia where he was "administrator," a word that Roosevelt loved, as we shall see in further chapters of this secret history of the stealthy realization of House's malevolent dream.

Altogether, the American people including men fighting the enemy, and their families at home, gave $11 billion worth of lend-lease to Russia alone. Not a dime of this ever came back nor ever will.

Javits Doubts FDR's Experience

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Rep. Jacob K. Javits says doubts that Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., his opponent for election as attorney general, "has had the experience as a lawyer to qualify him for this post."

Javits adds that he does not believe "the Tammany Hall alliance he has made contributes to his being qualified—quite the contrary."

Javits, the Republican candidate, criticized his Democratic-Liberal party opponent in a radio address last night. Javits said his own experience in the courts started in 1927.

Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization, and its leader, Carmine G. De Sapio, also were assailed by Javits.

Javits said Roosevelt was "handpicked by the boss for the most obvious political reasons," and added:

"My opponent was not selected because Tammany believes he is a seasoned lawyer, a man whose experience would best fit him for a job of attorney general, but he was cynically selected so that his name could be used to bolster a weak ticket. . . ."

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

Martin Goes To Ohio City

Jamestown, Oct. 6 (AP)—Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr., speaker of the House of Representatives, hit the campaign trail for Dayton, O., today after hailing the London conference and settlement of the Trieste dispute as triumphs of the Eisenhower foreign policy.

Martin spoke here last night before a campaign fund-raising dinner sponsored by the Chautauqua County Republican Committee.

"I think arming West Germany in the western defense is one of the greatest contributions to peace," he said. "The Soviets are not going to fight if they can't win."

Held for Bookmaking

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Doris Darwin, 30, of 118-15 205th street, St. Albans, Queens, was held in a total of $1,200 bail for a hearing Oct. 13 in Queens Gamblers Court when she was arraigned last night in night court on charges of bookmaking and possession of 31 reels of allegedly lewd motion pictures, pamphlets and photographs. Patrolmen said they had "tapped" Mrs. Darwin's telephone and heard bets on horse races being made. Darwin said she was paid $40 a month by a man she knew as "Jack" for the use of the telephone in her home, according to police.

Accidental Poison Cases Are Subject Of Medical Study

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—A new medical effort is being organized against a potential danger in your own home—the accidental poisoning of children by ingesting common household materials like furniture polish and bleaching agents.

Spearheaded by a group of Chicago doctors who have set up a "poisoning control centers", similar projects are operating or being developed in Boston, Cincinnati, New York, Phoenix and Washington, D. C., the American Academy of Pediatrics was told today.

THE IDEA IS to have a systematic, centrally-controlled network within a city whereby quickest action can be taken in treating a poisoned child and follow-up steps can be taken to try to prevent possible recurrences or independently new instances of the same emergency.

Dr. Edward Press of the University of Illinois and several associates described the Chicago program in a scientific exhibit at the AAP's 23rd annual meeting. Dr. Robert B. Mellins of the U. S. Public Health Service, who is participating in the Chicago program, supplied further details.

THEY SAID the commonest substances swallowed among 375 children treated for poisoning in the last year in Chicago were aspirin, petroleum products such as kerosene; rodent killers and insecticides; bleaching agents and turpentine.

The scientific exhibit pointed out that most of the harmful substances accidentally swallowed by children—such as kerosene and cleaning fluids—are not ordinarily thought of as poisons.

And the doctor added:

"An unpleasant taste alone can not be depended on as a deterrent. Children will imitate their elders who may consider such objects as horse radish, anchovies, red peppers and gin as desirable delicacies."

Use Less Fuel

You can save on fuel consumption by pulling down window shades at dusk and leaving them down until morning. The air pocket between the window and shade forms a fair insulator.

Cleaning Aluminum

When you use the aluminum double boiler, put one-half teaspoon of cream of tartar in the bottom half to keep it from discoloring. Other aluminum pans may be cleaned by boiling water with cream of tartar or vinegar in it for a while.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Oct. 6—Mrs. Joseph Sullivan, Brooklyn, who has been coming to Shokan for many years, and her daughter, Mrs. E. Cardona of Manhattan, spent last week at one of the G. Thost cottages along the Onteora Trail. Mrs. Sullivan reports that her husband recently suffered an injury to his back.

Allen Terwilliger, one of the oldest residents of Shokan, is ill at his home on the reservoir road.

Eva Burt and daughter, Mrs. Robert Gordon of Woodstock were recent callers at the home of Robert's mother, Mrs. Virgil Gordon.

There was quite a lengthy interruption of electric service throughout the twin villages on Friday and Saturday nights. The first incident reportedly was the result of an accident in which a car smashed a pole in lower Ashokan, seriously injuring an occupant. Saturday's break, the cause of which was not immediately determined, plunged Olive District No. 1 registration place in sudden darkness, necessitating the use of kerosene lamps from the antique shop downstairs.

Mrs. I. J. Cramer and Mrs. Martin Noble of Kingston were callers Wednesday at the Bertha Constable home. Mrs. Craver as Ina Bassett spent her girlhood years at Peekamoose Lake in the town of Denning.

Wedding anniversaries this week include that of Larry P. and Blanche (Churchill) Bishop, lifelong residents of the Boiceville sector of Olive who were married October 5, 1908, in the old village of Boiceville. Their farm home is on the hill road not far from the Onteora School. Tuesday, Oct. 6, marks the 80th birthday of Otto Rast who with his wife came here from New York 10 years ago. A retired tool and die maker, he is perhaps the county's foremost collector of butterflies.

Maude Bosworth, Town of Esopus antique collector, was a caller here Wednesday in the course of a trip to Lanesville. Mrs. Bosworth, who lives on the mountain road, is modernizing her 9-W house in Esopus village.

A clue to the earth's weather can be found in changes in Jupiter's brightness, which are related to sunspot activity.

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

Ocean Wave Speed

Waves in the ocean travel about 1¼ miles an hour if they are a foot long, but waves a thousand feet long travel at 44 miles per hour.

Farmer Is Held On Assault Count

Fort Scott, Kan., Oct. 6 (AP)—A 28-year-old mother told authorities yesterday her husband whipped her with sticks, gun butts and a rubber hose and chained her in bed with him at night.

Mrs. Doris Blackmore was hospitalized in serious condition. She is the mother of five children ranging in age from 2 to 8.

Her 33-year-old husband Cecil, pleaded innocent at his arraignment to charges of assault with intent to do bodily harm. He was held in county jail after failing to post $5,000 bond.

Undersheriff Claude Emrick quoted Blackmore, a farmer, as saying he was jealous of his wife but did not explain why. Other investigators reported they found no support for such a motive.

Mrs. Blackmore accused her husband of keeping her chained "to his body every night with a cow chain" all last week.

More than two-thirds of reported poliomyelitis cases are children under 15 years old.

School Situation Again Engages Woodstock Folk

Approval of plans for a three-room addition to the Woodstock school by the State Education Department and the forthcoming vote on a $70,000 bond issue to finance such a program, has again brought the school situation to the fore in Woodstock.

The plans approved by the department call for the building of three additional rooms, two for class rooms for use by the seventh and eighth grades and one as a general purpose room to house homemaking and shop. An alternate plan is being sponsored by another group of citizens along the lines advocated by the Official Fact Finding Committee some months ago. This plan calls for association with the Onteora Central School for seventh and eighth grade students and is projected on the theory that there are now ample facilities in the present school to educate the children of the district in grades kindergarten through grade six without any further building program.

NO DATE HAS BEEN set for the vote on the $70,000 bond issue.

Mrs. Virginia Hubbell, chairman of the Official Fact Finding Committee, which presented its report last spring at an open meeting of the Woodstock school board at which time John Egan also presented a report for the alternate group, alleges that Egan attacked the report of the fact finding committee on the grounds persons like Benedict, associate in the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services of the State Education Department, as well as others, had no real authority and that their advice did not constitute State Education policy. She states that since the Official Fact Finding Committee had based its report on information received from various departments of the State Education Department, "Mr. Egan may have convinced some people that the Fact Finding Committee's report was lacking in authority."

"Fortunately, Mr. Egan did outline the structure of the State Education department, and said that the only source of authority was the state commissioner of education. Thus a letter from the commissioner of education must certainly be considered impeachable source of authority," says Mrs. Hubbell.

SUPPORTING THIS theory, Mrs. Hubbell quotes from a letter by Commissioner L. A. Wilson, in which he expresses his views on the Woodstock school situation, and endorses Mr. Benedict's letter which was the basis for the Official Fact Finding Committee's report.

The letter from Commissioner Wilson, addressed to Mrs. Hubbell, after complimenting her for her interest in the matter, states in part:

"It appears that the people of Woodstock District are approaching the time when they must make some important decisions about the future education of their children. The possibility of remaining as a separate district should be scrutinized very carefully to see if an effective long-range solution is possible. Any permanent solution should provide for the education of children in all grades, kindergarten through twelve. Plans for any program short of this goal should be considered only temporary pending a solution which provides for all of the children. There is no evidence to indicate that the Woodstock District has or can anticipate having a sufficient number of pupils to warrant the establishment of either a junior high school for grades 7-9, or a junior-senior high school for grades 7-12. The committee and the trustees of the Woodstock District would be well advised to study carefully the possibility of joining an existing district which maintains a high school. Any immediate building program, if such be needed, should be directed toward development of facilities for resident children in grades kindergarten through six providing these plans do not jeopardize the possibility of becoming a part of a larger unit."

"WHEN THE ONTEORA Central School District was laid out, the Woodstock No. 2, District, with others, was omitted because opposition there to centralization might have jeopardized the formation and operation of a new school system in an area where it was sorely needed. Such omission should not be regarded as an exclusion of the Woodstock District from future association with the Onteora District, since the Master Plan recognizes that the Woodstock District is logically a part of the educational community served by the Onteora Central School."

In conclusion Commissioner Wilson states, "the letter which Mr. Benedict addressed to you was written by him as a representative of the Education Department. His letter correctly expresses Education Department policy."

IN COMMENTING on the letter of Commissioner Wilson, Mrs. Hubbel said:

"I hope the letter of the Commissioner will be read thoughtfully by the people in the community, and that they will weigh his words carefully before voting on a $70,000 bond issue, which, contrary to the Commissioner's advice, is intended to enlarge the facilities for the seventh and eighth grades, rather than those for kindergarten through grade six. If we follow the advice of the Commissioner there is no necessity to add to our bonded indebtedness. We have the facilities to educate the children of the district in grades kindergarten through grade six without any further building program. This is the time to work for a permanent solution to our educational program, not a temporary one. The Commissioner of Education points out the way to achieve this. Are we going to take his advice, or are we going to spend more money and still fall short of providing a complete education for all our children?"

Here It Is: . . .

hard winter, but Shultis sees only one sign of that and is not too much concerned.

Tom doesn't base his predictions on the color fore or aft of caterpillars, but would like to hear from those who do concerning one white one he saw. He has observed brown and black caterpillars too.

I'd sure like to hear from those caterpillar experts, he remarked.

Why is Tom's fame as a weather prognosticator spreading?

WELL, HE PREDICTED summer for the eastern part of the nation would be disagreeable and changeable, with high winds.

And, what happened?

Check back and you'll find there were hurricanes all along the east coast, and "Carol" blew so hard the rain and wind caused 49 deaths and 500 million dollars worth of damage in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Reports from public utilities sources revealed that Kingston and surrounding areas experienced their share, too, but the wind had subsided some before it hit here.

However, Ulster county apple growers had to appeal to the New York State Agricultural Department for assistance after rain, wind and hale pelted fruit from the trees.

STORM APPLES were put on the market at reduced prices because they were not suitable for storage in coolers, and cider, jelly and applebutter manufacturers bought a lot. State institutions ordered a large quantity for preserving in their canneries.

Shultis forecasts read in Florida By Freeman subscribers there, made him as popular as his name in neon lights. He says letters pour in from the southland which experienced its share of the bad weather he predicted.

SUMMER FORECASTS were right as far as he went on temperatures. He said June and July would be warmest, and they were. But, Tom was a little off on the frost in May and August, he admits.

One local observer insists however, that he saw frost in August, which lightens the so-called error.

Despite his accuracy over more than a two-year period, Shultis insists on keeping his weather forecasting a secret. He knows how, and that's that.

Last year Tom predicted a mild winter with light storms, water supply and reservoirs below normal. However, he concluded, we may have a late spring as Easter will be late, the 18th of April.

HE PREDICTED that the winter of 1952-53 would be mild—and Ulster county had the warmest weather in 38 years.

Summing up the past winter, in support of his judgment, Shultis points out that the heaviest snowfall at any one time was only five inches—this on two occasions. The heaviest rainfall at any one time amounted to two inches.

The only winter weather was from January 9 to January 18. Only four times was the thermometer at zero or below. The average high and low degree temperature for four months was 30 degrees, which was higher than the winter of 1953.

According to Shultis, the national forecast on Ground Hog Day, February 2, was for six more weeks of winter. The ground hog came out, looked around, saw his shadow and said, "I don't believe what Shultis forecast for February and March. I am going back for six more weeks of winter." He went back, says Shultis, and missed six weeks of the best part of the winter.

Shultis said the area had its warmest February in the last 70 years.

Crash of Flying Boxcar Kills Two

Ft. Bragg, N. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—A C-119 Flying Boxcar crashed in flames here today and killed at least two men.

Heroic action by the pilot was credited by witnesses with saving the lives of a number of construction workers in the path of the falling plane.

The army reported 14 casualties in the crash. There were 12 aboard the plane and two civilian workers on the ground were among the casualties. Public information officers said they did not know immediately whether the dead were military or civilian personnel.

(At Washington the army said it had a report that four had been killed. But an army source here said the Washington report was based on fragmentary information immediately after the crash.)

The big plane crashed in a barracks street at this sprawling military reservation shortly after a takeoff for Olmstead Air Force Base, Pa.

The army and air force said it carried a crew of five and seven military passengers.

Curtain at 8:40 To Open Season For CP Charity

When the Curtain at 8:40 season opens at Reade's Broadway Theatre, October 13, it will feature Genevieve, a British film comedy brought to Kingston to help the cerebral palsy fund.

Announcement of this was made today by Joseph Sommers, city manager for Reade's, who said he expects the picture, featuring pretty Dinah Sheridan, to raise a nice amount for CP.

"Considering that the local CP clinic is one of the most worthy institutions," Sommers said, "we are happy to do our part in helping it."

SOMMERS PLANNED the benefit show himself, after learning that more than 100 palsied and handicapped children receive therapy at the Cerebral Palsy Center on Broadway in the building with the city laboratory.

Officers, mothers and those interested in the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Chapter are selling tickets, hoping to swell the boxoffice receipts, from which CP will receive a generous amount, the Reade management says.

Regardless of the advance sale, the theatre will help the fund from money taken in the night of the show.

Aside from showing the picture as a benefit feature, Sommers said he is proud of being able to get it for his first Curtain at 8:40 attraction.

"IT IS A HILARIOUS comedy with plenty of laughs," the manager advised, one of the latest British technicolor movies to reach the U. S.

The story is about an old racing car enthusiast who is torn between love for his wife and for Genevieve, which is the name of his 1904 ancient auto.

Dinah Sheridan, the star, a beautiful young actress, played the patient, fully composed wife of the test pilot in Breaking the Sound Barrier, and is considered Britain's leading woman player.

Between Sound Barrier and Genevieve she was featured in Gilbert and Sullivan, the technicolor musical in which she portrayed the financee of Arthur Sullivan.

As usual, Sommers said, coffee will be served in the mezzanine, and an art exhibit will be on display from Woodstock.

Continued in Supreme court today before Justice Donald S. Taylor and a jury was a negligence action brought by Dolores Machione of Glasco against Mrs. Margaret T. Gorman, owner of the premises occupied by Montgomery Ward Company, and Montgomery Ward Company. The action was originally brought against Mrs. Gorman but Wards was brought in as a third party on motion of Mrs. Gorman, who alleged under her lease to the company it was liable for maintenance of building, including windows.

The action arises out of injuries which plaintiff suffered on April 22, 1952 when a transom window in the front of the building fell injuring her about the head, face and arms. She was employed by Montgomery Ward.

Plaintiff is represented by Abraham Streifer and Mrs. Gorman by Cook and Cook, with Andrew J. Cook Jr. as trial counsel. Montgomery Ward is represented by N. Jansen Fowler.

It is alleged that in the event recovery is made against Mrs. Gorman, as owner of the property, Montgomery Ward is liable to her under the terms of the lease by which the property is leased to Wards.

Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when plaintiff rested its case shortly before the noon recess.

Deaths Reported

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Cecil Owen, 51, editor of the United Mine Workers Union Journal and an active newspaperman for many years. Born in Atlantic City, N. J. Died Tuesday.

INDIANAPOLIS — Jack M. Oakey, 58, of Denver, director of the National Field Service of the American Legion since 1953 and former commander of the Colorado Legion. Died Tuesday.

CHICAGO—Irving N. Klein, 70, former head of the L. Klein department store, founded by his father, Louis, in 1869 and the largest outside the downtown district before it went bankrupt in 1947. Died Tuesday.

New York . . .

Bradley and other top union officials who attended the mediation meeting were reported to have promised to recommend quick approval of the agreement. Waterfront observers viewed formal endorsement of the agreement as virtually certain.

Although Bradley said longshoremen would continue on strike until the 170-man wage scale committee acts, other union officials said some men would probably go back at the start of the regular work day.

The strike caught 71 ships in port and idled docks all along the 350-mile waterfront, biggest and busiest in the world. It came on short notice yesterday and demonstrated the resurgent power of the ILA after a year of bitter but successful struggle to retain its long control of dock labor.

SPECIFICALLY at issue was the union's demand for immediate payment of an hourly eight-cent wage increase and a two-cent boost in welfare benefits, both retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953. Although the employers offered to pay the wage raise as demanded and the welfare increase back to last April 1, they balked at any payment unless coupled with a contract covering the next two years.

Also involved in the sudden strike was the union's anger over recent statements by the waterfront commission of New York harbor, accusing the ILA of being gangster-controlled.

Last night's agreement meets the union's demand for back pay before considering a new contract.

IT FOLLOWED the employers' proposal, however, by making the two-cent boost in welfare contributions effective only back to April 1. Shippers and stevedore firms voluntarily started paying the increase on that date, making their contribution seven instead of five cents.

The shippers' refusal to pay the welfare increase for the previous six months was coupled with a promise to give "full consideration" to a further increase in future welfare payments.

Although there had been little warning of the strike, it went into effect smoothly and without violence. There was no opposition from the AFL International Brotherhood of Longshoremen which challenged the ILA's power for a year and lost out in a final vote count by a slim margin only five weeks ago.

The only non-military dock operations not brought to a complete standstill were the docking and unloading of passengers by the Queen Mary and Independence. Both were berthed by tugboats before the strike was extended to include tug crews.

TWENTY-FOUR automobiles in the hold of the Queen Mary remained unloaded, however.

Shippers' fears of a loss of business because of the strike were confirmed when six ships headed for New York were reported diverted to other east coast ports. The industry figures that 10 per cent of diverted shipping never returns and the port suffers a permanent loss of trade worth more than a million dollars for every day of a strike.

Diversions would be reduced, however, if the strike were to spread to other east coast ports. Bradley suggested there was a chance this would happen when he announced yesterday: "There is a strong possibility that the men in other ports from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va., will also strike."

Leibowitz Hits Albany Politics

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz said today "the politicians in Albany" are more interested in building roads for upstate farmers than inproviding mental care for law offenders "who don't bring votes."

Leibowitz made the comment in Kings County Court while sentencing Harold Cahill, 35, of Brooklyn, to 3½ to 15 years for second degree robbery. He allegedly beat a woman in a subway purse snatching.

Defense counsel pleaded he needed psychiatric care.

"I AGREE WITH YOU," said Leibowitz, "but where can I send him? The state does not provide proper institutions for men of this kind. There are only four or five psychiatrists to take care of our state's 20,000 prisoners."

Cahill was charged with punching Mrs. Odette L. Husband, 31, a French war bride, in a subway Aug. 16 and snatching her purse containing $52. She put up a fight and he was arrested.

Police said Cahill, a machine operator, had "money troubles." The firm that employed him moved to another location. He purchased an automobile so he still could get to work and then had difficulty keeping up the payments.

Anacostia Meeting Brings More Confusion to Issue

(By The Associated Press)

A pupils' mass meeting at Anacostia High School in Washington ended in confusion today with little accomplished toward ending protests of mixing whites and Negroes in classrooms.

Some 700 to 800 gathered in the athletic stadium of Anacostia High and heard pleas that that they go back to school while their leaders met with school authorities to discuss the situation.

They first reached a decision that a committee of pupils would meet with Acting Principal Eugene Griffith. But then howls came from some of the youngsters who have been striking over the integration program. The session broke up with the strikers saying "no" to Griffith's plea for the conference.

GRIFFITH TOLD those who wanted to attend classes to come in and the others to go home.

At other Washington schools where disorders and demonstrations have occurred in recent days the tension eased.

Anacostia High has been the scene of the biggest demonstrations against the three week old program of racial integration in District of Columbia schools. Yesterday Police Lt. William T. Murphy said he felt "the peak of the disturbance is past" at Anacostia.

The police officer made the statement at day's end after more than 2,800 students were reported absent at one time or another from three high schools and six junior highs. Six persons were arrested near Anacostia High. Two men were held on charges of disorderly conduct, the others were released.

DURING THE DAY about 100 white students congregated in front of the Supreme Court building where the historic decision outlawing segregation in the public schools was handed down last May 17, but left quickly under police orders.

Exactly who or what was behind the demonstrations could not be determined. They appeared to be spontoneous imitations of recent mass protests against desegregation at Baltimore and at Milford, Del.

Vice President Richard Nixon, on a political tour in Iowa, told newsmen at Council Bluffs that there is "going to be some period of tension but "men of good will, working together, are going to find a way to carry out the decision."

AT BALTIMORE, firm handling by school and police officials, coupled with a Circuit Court decision, appeared to have quelled a series of student strikes, picketing and mass protests. Schools throughout the city reported the situation quiet. Attendance was beginning to mount.

Superior Judge James K. Cullen ruled that white and Negro children may continue to go to public schools together.

Nine of 11 Negro pupils turned away last week from Milford's all-white high school failed to report to Dover's all-Negro school.

A school official said he understood the nine were boycotting classes until they learned the result of a court argument Tuesday on an injunction filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to allow them to return to Milford.

In Washington, the CIO executive board adopted a resolution calling on Atty. Gen. Brownell to "take firm and fast action" with federal civil rights laws to insure "peaceful integration of the public schools." The board also asked him to intervene in student strikes.

Also in Washington, a veteran southern educator said "there may be some rough stuff in the south before integration is fully accepted, but it will be in the nature of a last skirmish."

School Situation Again Engages Woodstock Folk

Approval of plans for a three-room addition to the Woodstock school by the State Education Department and the forthcoming vote on a $70,000 bond issue to finance such a program, has again brought the school situation to the fore in Woodstock.

The plans approved by the department call for the building of three additional rooms, two for class rooms for use by the seventh and eighth grades and one as a general purpose room to house homemaking and shop. An alternate plan is being sponsored by another group of citizens along the lines advocated by the Official Fact Finding Committee some months ago. This plan calls for association with the Onteora Central School for seventh and eighth grade students and is projected on the theory that there are now ample facilities in the present school to educate the children of the district in grades kindergarten through grade six without any further building program.

NO DATE HAS BEEN set for the vote on the $70,000 bond issue.

Mrs. Virginia Hubbell, chairman of the Official Fact Finding Committee, which presented its report last spring at an open meeting of the Woodstock school board at which time John Egan also presented a report for the alternate group, alleges that Egan attacked the report of the fact finding committee on the grounds persons like Benedict, associate in the Bureau of Rural Administrative Services of the State Education Department, as well as others, had no real authority and that their advice did not constitute State Education policy. She states that since the Official Fact Finding Committee had based its report on information received from various departments of the State Education Department, "Mr. Egan may have convinced some people that the Fact Finding Committee's report was lacking in authority."

"Fortunately, Mr. Egan did outline the structure of the State Education department, and said that the only source of authority was the state commissioner of education. Thus a letter from the commissioner of education must certainly be considered impeachable source of authority," says Mrs. Hubbell.

SUPPORTING THIS theory, Mrs. Hubbell quotes from a letter by Commissioner L. A. Wilson, in which he expresses his views on the Woodstock school situation, and endorses Mr. Benedict's letter which was the basis for the Official Fact Finding Committee's report.

The letter from Commissioner Wilson, addressed to Mrs. Hubbell, after complimenting her for her interest in the matter, states in part:

"It appears that the people of Woodstock District are approaching the time when they must make some important decisions about the future education of their children. The possibility of remaining as a separate district should be scrutinized very carefully to see if an effective long-range solution is possible. Any permanent solution should provide for the education of children in all grades, kindergarten through twelve. Plans for any program short of this goal should be considered only temporary pending a solution which provides for all of the children. There is no evidence to indicate that the Woodstock District has or can anticipate having a sufficient number of pupils to warrant the establishment of either a junior high school for grades 7-9, or a junior-senior high school for grades 7-12. The committee and the trustees of the Woodstock District would be well advised to study carefully the possibility of joining an existing district which maintains a high school. Any immediate building program, if such be needed, should be directed toward development of facilities for resident children in grades kindergarten through six providing these plans do not jeopardize the possibility of becoming a part of a larger unit."

"WHEN THE ONTEORA Central School District was laid out, the Woodstock No. 2, District, with others, was omitted because opposition there to centralization might have jeopardized the formation and operation of a new school system in an area where it was sorely needed. Such omission should not be regarded as an exclusion of the Woodstock District from future association with the Onteora District, since the Master Plan recognizes that the Woodstock District is logically a part of the educational community served by the Onteora Central School."

In conclusion Commissioner Wilson states, "the letter which Mr. Benedict addressed to you was written by him as a representative of the Education Department. His letter correctly expresses Education Department policy."

IN COMMENTING on the letter of Commissioner Wilson, Mrs. Hubbel said:

"I hope the letter of the Commissioner will be read thoughtfully by the people in the community, and that they will weigh his words carefully before voting on a $70,000 bond issue, which, contrary to the Commissioner's advice, is intended to enlarge the facilities for the seventh and eighth grades, rather than those for kindergarten through grade six. If we follow the advice of the Commissioner there is no necessity to add to our bonded indebtedness. We have the facilities to educate the children of the district in grades kindergarten through grade six without any further building program. This is the time to work for a permanent solution to our educational program, not a temporary one. The Commissioner of Education points out the way to achieve this. Are we going to take his advice, or are we going to spend more money and still fall short of providing a complete education for all our children?"

W. H. Henry Dies

hard winter, but Shultis sees only one sign of that and is not too much concerned.

Tom doesn't base his predictions on the color fore or aft of caterpillars, but would like to hear from those who do concerning one white one he saw. He has observed brown and black caterpillars too.

I'd sure like to hear from those caterpillar experts, he remarked.

Why is Tom's fame as a weather prognosticator spreading?

WELL, HE PREDICTED summer for the eastern part of the nation would be disagreeable and changeable, with high winds.

And, what happened?

Check back and you'll find there were hurricanes all along the east coast, and "Carol" blew so hard the rain and wind caused 49 deaths and 500 million dollars worth of damage in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Reports from public utilities sources revealed that Kingston and surrounding areas experienced their share, too, but the wind had subsided some before it hit here.

However, Ulster county apple growers had to appeal to the New York State Agricultural Department for assistance after rain, wind and hale pelted fruit from the trees.

STORM APPLES were put on the market at reduced prices because they were not suitable for storage in coolers, and cider, jelly and applebutter manufacturers bought a lot. State institutions ordered a large quantity for preserving in their canneries.

Shultis forecasts read in Florida By Freeman subscribers there, made him as popular as his name in neon lights. He says letters pour in from the southland which experienced its share of the bad weather he predicted.

SUMMER FORECASTS were right as far as he went on temperatures. He said June and July would be warmest, and they were. But, Tom was a little off on the frost in May and August, he admits.

One local observer insists however, that he saw frost in August, which lightens the so-called error.

Despite his accuracy over more than a two-year period, Shultis insists on keeping his weather forecasting a secret. He knows how, and that's that.

Last year Tom predicted a mild winter with light storms, water supply and reservoirs below normal. However, he concluded, we may have a late spring as Easter will be late, the 18th of April.

HE PREDICTED that the winter of 1952-53 would be mild—and Ulster county had the warmest weather in 38 years.

Summing up the past winter, in support of his judgment, Shultis points out that the heaviest snowfall at any one time was only five inches—this on two occasions. The heaviest rainfall at any one time amounted to two inches.

The only winter weather was from January 9 to January 18. Only four times was the thermometer at zero or below. The average high and low degree temperature for four months was 30 degrees, which was higher than the winter of 1953.

According to Shultis, the national forecast on Ground Hog Day, February 2, was for six more weeks of winter. The ground hog came out, looked around, saw his shadow and said, "I don't believe what Shultis forecast for February and March. I am going back for six more weeks of winter." He went back, says Shultis, and missed six weeks of the best part of the winter.

Shultis said the area had its warmest February in the last 70 years.

Crash of Flying Boxcar Kills Two

Ft. Bragg, N. C., Oct. 6 (AP)—A C-119 Flying Boxcar crashed in flames here today and killed at least two men.

Heroic action by the pilot was credited by witnesses with saving the lives of a number of construction workers in the path of the falling plane.

The army reported 14 casualties in the crash. There were 12 aboard the plane and two civilian workers on the ground were among the casualties. Public information officers said they did not know immediately whether the dead were military or civilian personnel.

(At Washington the army said it had a report that four had been killed. But an army source here said the Washington report was based on fragmentary information immediately after the crash.)

The big plane crashed in a barracks street at this sprawling military reservation shortly after a takeoff for Olmstead Air Force Base, Pa.

The army and air force said it carried a crew of five and seven military passengers.

No Hits Scored

Taipeh, Formosa, Oct. 6 (AP)—Nationalist anti-aircraft guns on the Tachen Islands, off the coast of Red China, opened fire yesterday on three Communist planes but scored no hits, the Defense Ministry said today.

Curtain at 8:40 To Open Season For CP Charity

When the Curtain at 8:40 season opens at Reade's Broadway Theatre, October 13, it will feature Genevieve, a British film comedy brought to Kingston to help the cerebral palsy fund.

Announcement of this was made today by Joseph Sommers, city manager for Reade's, who said he expects the picture, featuring pretty Dinah Sheridan, to raise a nice amount for CP.

"Considering that the local CP clinic is one of the most worthy institutions," Sommers said, "we are happy to do our part in helping it."

SOMMERS PLANNED the benefit show himself, after learning that more than 100 palsied and handicapped children receive therapy at the Cerebral Palsy Center on Broadway in the building with the city laboratory.

Officers, mothers and those interested in the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Chapter are selling tickets, hoping to swell the boxoffice receipts, from which CP will receive a generous amount, the Reade management says.

Regardless of the advance sale, the theatre will help the fund from money taken in the night of the show.

Aside from showing the picture as a benefit feature, Sommers said he is proud of being able to get it for his first Curtain at 8:40 attraction.

"IT IS A HILARIOUS comedy with plenty of laughs," the manager advised, one of the latest British technicolor movies to reach the U. S.

The story is about an old racing car enthusiast who is torn between love for his wife and for Genevieve, which is the name of his 1904 ancient auto.

Dinah Sheridan, the star, a beautiful young actress, played the patient, fully composed wife of the test pilot in Breaking the Sound Barrier, and is considered Britain's leading woman player.

Between Sound Barrier and Genevieve she was featured in Gilbert and Sullivan, the technicolor musical in which she portrayed the financee of Arthur Sullivan.

As usual, Sommers said, coffee will be served in the mezzanine, and an art exhibit will be on display from Woodstock.

Continued in Supreme court today before Justice Donald S. Taylor and a jury was a negligence action brought by Dolores Machione of Glasco against Mrs. Margaret T. Gorman, owner of the premises occupied by Montgomery Ward Company, and Montgomery Ward Company. The action was originally brought against Mrs. Gorman but Wards was brought in as a third party on motion of Mrs. Gorman, who alleged under her lease to the company it was liable for maintenance of building, including windows.

The action arises out of injuries which plaintiff suffered on April 22, 1952 when a transom window in the front of the building fell injuring her about the head, face and arms. She was employed by Montgomery Ward.

Plaintiff is represented by Abraham Streifer and Mrs. Gorman by Cook and Cook, with Andrew J. Cook Jr. as trial counsel. Montgomery Ward is represented by N. Jansen Fowler.

It is alleged that in the event recovery is made against Mrs. Gorman, as owner of the property, Montgomery Ward is liable to her under the terms of the lease by which the property is leased to Wards.

Jurors not engaged on the case were excused until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when plaintiff rested its case shortly before the noon recess.

Deaths Reported

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Cecil Owen, 51, editor of the United Mine Workers Union Journal and an active newspaperman for many years. Born in Atlantic City, N. J. Died Tuesday.

INDIANAPOLIS — Jack M. Oakey, 58, of Denver, director of the National Field Service of the American Legion since 1953 and former commander of the Colorado Legion. Died Tuesday.

CHICAGO—Irving N. Klein, 70, former head of the L. Klein department store, founded by his father, Louis, in 1869 and the largest outside the downtown district before it went bankrupt in 1947. Died Tuesday.

New York . . .

Bradley and other top union officials who attended the mediation meeting were reported to have promised to recommend quick approval of the agreement. Waterfront observers viewed formal endorsement of the agreement as virtually certain.

Although Bradley said longshoremen would continue on strike until the 170-man wage scale committee acts, other union officials said some men would probably go back at the start of the regular work day.

The strike caught 71 ships in port and idled docks all along the 350-mile waterfront, biggest and busiest in the world. It came on short notice yesterday and demonstrated the resurgent power of the ILA after a year of bitter but successful struggle to retain its long control of dock labor.

SPECIFICALLY at issue was the union's demand for immediate payment of an hourly eight-cent wage increase and a two-cent boost in welfare benefits, both retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953. Although the employers offered to pay the wage raise as demanded and the welfare increase back to last April 1, they balked at any payment unless coupled with a contract covering the next two years.

Also involved in the sudden strike was the union's anger over recent statements by the waterfront commission of New York harbor, accusing the ILA of being gangster-controlled.

Last night's agreement meets the union's demand for back pay before considering a new contract.

IT FOLLOWED the employers' proposal, however, by making the two-cent boost in welfare contributions effective only back to April 1. Shippers and stevedore firms voluntarily started paying the increase on that date, making their contribution seven instead of five cents.

The shippers' refusal to pay the welfare increase for the previous six months was coupled with a promise to give "full consideration" to a further increase in future welfare payments.

Although there had been little warning of the strike, it went into effect smoothly and without violence. There was no opposition from the AFL International Brotherhood of Longshoremen which challenged the ILA's power for a year and lost out in a final vote count by a slim margin only five weeks ago.

The only non-military dock operations not brought to a complete standstill were the docking and unloading of passengers by the Queen Mary and Independence. Both were berthed by tugboats before the strike was extended to include tug crews.

TWENTY-FOUR automobiles in the hold of the Queen Mary remained unloaded, however.

Shippers' fears of a loss of business because of the strike were confirmed when six ships headed for New York were reported diverted to other east coast ports. The industry figures that 10 per cent of diverted shipping never returns and the port suffers a permanent loss of trade worth more than a million dollars for every day of a strike.

Diversions would be reduced, however, if the strike were to spread to other east coast ports. Bradley suggested there was a chance this would happen when he announced yesterday: "There is a strong possibility that the men in other ports from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va., will also strike."

Leibowitz Hits Albany Politics

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz said today "the politicians in Albany" are more interested in building roads for upstate farmers than inproviding mental care for law offenders "who don't bring votes."

Leibowitz made the comment in Kings County Court while sentencing Harold Cahill, 35, of Brooklyn, to 3½ to 15 years for second degree robbery. He allegedly beat a woman in a subway purse snatching.

Defense counsel pleaded he needed psychiatric care.

"I AGREE WITH YOU," said Leibowitz, "but where can I send him? The state does not provide proper institutions for men of this kind. There are only four or five psychiatrists to take care of our state's 20,000 prisoners."

Cahill was charged with punching Mrs. Odette L. Husband, 31, a French war bride, in a subway Aug. 16 and snatching her purse containing $52. She put up a fight and he was arrested.

Police said Cahill, a machine operator, had "money troubles." The firm that employed him moved to another location. He purchased an automobile so he still could get to work and then had difficulty keeping up the payments.

Anacostia Meeting Brings More Confusion to Issue

(By The Associated Press)

A pupils' mass meeting at Anacostia High School in Washington ended in confusion today with little accomplished toward ending protests of mixing whites and Negroes in classrooms.

Some 700 to 800 gathered in the athletic stadium of Anacostia High and heard pleas that that they go back to school while their leaders met with school authorities to discuss the situation.

They first reached a decision that a committee of pupils would meet with Acting Principal Eugene Griffith. But then howls came from some of the youngsters who have been striking over the integration program. The session broke up with the strikers saying "no" to Griffith's plea for the conference.

GRIFFITH TOLD those who wanted to attend classes to come in and the others to go home.

At other Washington schools where disorders and demonstrations have occurred in recent days the tension eased.

Anacostia High has been the scene of the biggest demonstrations against the three week old program of racial integration in District of Columbia schools. Yesterday Police Lt. William T. Murphy said he felt "the peak of the disturbance is past" at Anacostia.

The police officer made the statement at day's end after more than 2,800 students were reported absent at one time or another from three high schools and six junior highs. Six persons were arrested near Anacostia High. Two men were held on charges of disorderly conduct, the others were released.

DURING THE DAY about 100 white students congregated in front of the Supreme Court building where the historic decision outlawing segregation in the public schools was handed down last May 17, but left quickly under police orders.

Exactly who or what was behind the demonstrations could not be determined. They appeared to be spontoneous imitations of recent mass protests against desegregation at Baltimore and at Milford, Del.

Vice President Richard Nixon, on a political tour in Iowa, told newsmen at Council Bluffs that there is "going to be some period of tension but "men of good will, working together, are going to find a way to carry out the decision."

AT BALTIMORE, firm handling by school and police officials, coupled with a Circuit Court decision, appeared to have quelled a series of student strikes, picketing and mass protests. Schools throughout the city reported the situation quiet. Attendance was beginning to mount.

Superior Judge James K. Cullen ruled that white and Negro children may continue to go to public schools together.

Nine of 11 Negro pupils turned away last week from Milford's all-white high school failed to report to Dover's all-Negro school.

A school official said he understood the nine were boycotting classes until they learned the result of a court argument Tuesday on an injunction filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to allow them to return to Milford.

In Washington, the CIO executive board adopted a resolution calling on Atty. Gen. Brownell to "take firm and fast action" with federal civil rights laws to insure "peaceful integration of the public schools." The board also asked him to intervene in student strikes.

Also in Washington, a veteran southern educator said "there may be some rough stuff in the south before integration is fully accepted, but it will be in the nature of a last skirmish."

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Mrs. Rhinehart of Hasbrouck avenue brought in some newspapers of 1894. One is the World, dated Jan. 17. There is a handsome pen and ink sketch called "Fashions from Paris, designed and drawn especially for The World." There seems yards and yards of material in this dress by Montaille, of Paris. "It is of surah, shading from mouse color to gold. The whole gown is accordion plaited. The skirt is in the form of two flounces, with insertions of yellow lace. The bodice and full sleeves also have bands of the lace. The collar, belt and wrist bands are of mouse colored ribbons." How could the mention of a mouse appeal to the feminine world at any time I do not know.

They had a doctor's column in those days too. It was signed J. F. Whitmyer, MD. One question reads: "Will you kindly tell me what to do for my son's ears? They are too prominent, not lying close enough to the head." The answer: "An instrument (a sort of cap) by means of which the trouble can be corrected can be obtained from almost any dealer in children's wearing apparel." Another question: "Kindly suggest a simple remedy for the relief of huskiness of the voice." Answer: "Get some lozenges of muriate of ammonia and licorice and use them as required." For a baby's colic he suggests: "Give 10 drops of compound tincture of cardamon in a teaspoonful of hot water as required." For inflamed eyelids and itching he advises: "Bathe your eyes several times a day with a wash compound of 10 grains of boric acid and two ounces of camphor water." No doubt many of these suggestions were taken to the local pharmacist to be made up, some 60 years ago.

Dentistry was advertised in the want advertisements of the old World thus 60 years ago: "Beautiful teeth, $4, $6, $8; gas free; physician attendant; gold filling $1 up, others 50 cents. New York Dental Co., 514 3rd avenue near 35th street." Another advertisement plainly said: "For 60 days, $20 teeth for only $7; others $3 and up, gas free; fillings 50 cents, 270 6th avenue near 17th street." Another advertisement reads: "The World's Fair Medal for artificial teeth was awarded to Dr. Henry F. Deane, dentist, 45th street, corner Lexington avenue." That is the first time I ever read about medals given for artificial teeth. Only the wearer, I think, can answer how good, comfortable and attractive they are. No matter how good they may look in the dentist's hands, if they do not fit properly so the patient can eat, smile and talk with them comfortably, gold medals will not help.

I notice there is an item marked in this paper reading as follows: Kingston, Jan. 16. Judge Alton B. Parker, of the Supreme Court, was taken ill with pneumonia last night, but is somewhat improved today. No doubt that is why this paper was saved so many years as Judge Parker ran for president of U. S. and had much to do with the building of the Senate House Museum. During his life time he played a large part in the social, and political life of this section.

Looking in the "Amusement" section I see the Metropolitan Opera House advertisement for Thursday afternoon, Jan. 18, 1894, featuring the grand concert of Sousa and his band, Lillian Russell, and others. This was "in aid of the press and other charity funds" prices were 25 cents, 50, 75 and $1. Boxes were $6, $9 and $10.

A.B.C. Insigne Is the Hallmark Of Circulation

This is the hallmark of circulation value—and to be displayed, it must first have been earned. It is the insigne of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, the bureau of circulation standards for the advertising and publishing industry.

Our display of this symbol means that our circulation has measured up to A.B.C. requirements and standards.

Just as the manufacturer and merchant buy and sell merchandise on the basis of known standards of grade, weight and measure, so are we prepared to tell advertisers all about our circulation, thanks to A.B.C.

In fact, that's why we belong to the Bureau—to give our advertisers a verified count and description of the circulation audience they get when they buy advertising in The Kingston Daily Freeman.

There are definite standards for advertising values as well as for merchandise. We believe that newspaper advertising should be bought and sold on the basis of these standards.

ABC IS A NONPROFIT, cooperative association with 3,575 advertiser, advertising agency and publisher members in the United States and Canada. It employs a staff of experienced circulation auditors, who regularly visit all publisher members to make exhaustive audits of their circulation records. The information from these audits is then issued in reports which are available to advertisers.

Our A.B.C. reports serve us as editorial guides, too. By knowing, through the continuing picture presented in our ABC reports, exactly how large our circulation is and where our subscribers live, we can arrange our editorial coverage to best serve the interests of our readers.

FOR OUR ADVERTISERS, our A.B.C. membership means verified circulation information, based on uniform standards and accepted practices. Since A.B.C. audits only publications with net paid circulation, our membership assures advertisers that The Kingston Daily Freeman stays in business by the voluntary support of its readers.

In order to maintain that voluntary support, we must demonstrate our responsiveness and responsibility to our readers. The A.B.C. audit of circulation tells both the advertiser and the editor whether our newspaper is performing a service to our readers.

The Kingston Daily Freeman is proud to display the hallmark of circulation value—the symbol of our membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulation — which has become synonymous with the words "factual" and "integrity" in the protection of both the advertiser and the reader.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

The wife says, "Hubby, I'll drive, you park the car and I'll do some shopping."

"Sure, Wifey. I'll make the money you spend. Anyhow, I'll try."

One can slide down hill; but sister, try to slide up!"

General Ike, by choice of the people, got the job when the works were on the "slide." To slam on the brakes too hard would probably cause a smash-up.

Mr. Hutton

The "Dealers," for the past twenty years, manipulated the "works" for votes. They damned business as dishonest and public enemies. They created class hatred.

The busy bees, who gathered the honey, were classed as "money bags."

Our President is slowly climbing up the slide. He did not put the tax or debt structure on the books. He respects our Constitutional Way of Life. The "Dealers" did not. Neither did they balance the budget but three times in the past twenty years when they held all the cards.

Some of the "Dealers'" deals are beyond immediate repair and will have to stay in the shop for some time.

Our President is your best hope, Mr. Businessman. Stay on the team. Run interference. Should the left-wingers return to power, you are washed up.

"Ike" can drive and park the car as well. Otherwise the southpaws will do the driving, but will never park.

How about it, neighbor?

Why We Say--

A modern-day chauffeur might be insulted if he were asked to stoke a fire besides driving an automobile. Actually the word means one who stokes the fire (from the French). In 1900 the word was switched to an automobile driver because cars burned wood and had to be stoked by the chauffeur.

"It is of surah, shading from mouse color to gold. The whole gown is accordion plaited. The skirt is in the form of two flounces, with insertions of yellow lace. The bodice and full sleeves also have bands of the lace. The collar, belt and wrist bands are of mouse colored ribbons." How could the mention of a mouse appeal to the feminine world at any time I do not know.

They had a doctor's column in those days too. It was signed J. F. Whitmyer, MD. One question reads: "Will you kindly tell me what to do for my son's ears? They are too prominent, not lying close enough to the head." The answer: "An instrument (a sort of cap) by means of which the trouble can be corrected can be obtained from almost any dealer in children's wearing apparel." Another question: "Kindly suggest a simple remedy for the relief of huskiness of the voice." Answer: "Get some lozenges of muriate of ammonia and licorice and use them as required." For a baby's colic he suggests: "Give 10 drops of compound tincture of cardamon in a teaspoonful of hot water as required." For inflamed eyelids and itching he advises: "Bathe your eyes several times a day with a wash compound of 10 grains of boric acid and two ounces of camphor water." No doubt many of these suggestions were taken to the local pharmacist to be made up, some 60 years ago.

Dentistry was advertised in the want advertisements of the old World thus 60 years ago: "Beautiful teeth, $4, $6, $8; gas free; physician attendant; gold filling $1 up, others 50 cents. New York Dental Co., 514 3rd avenue near 35th street." Another advertisement plainly said: "For 60 days, $20 teeth for only $7; others $3 and up, gas free; fillings 50 cents, 270 6th avenue near 17th street." Another advertisement reads: "The World's Fair Medal for artificial teeth was awarded to Dr. Henry F. Deane, dentist, 45th street, corner Lexington avenue." That is the first time I ever read about medals given for artificial teeth. Only the wearer, I think, can answer how good, comfortable and attractive they are. No matter how good they may look in the dentist's hands, if they do not fit properly so the patient can eat, smile and talk with them comfortably, gold medals will not help.

I notice there is an item marked in this paper reading as follows: Kingston, Jan. 16. Judge Alton B. Parker, of the Supreme Court, was taken ill with pneumonia last night, but is somewhat improved today. No doubt that is why this paper was saved so many years as Judge Parker ran for president of U. S. and had much to do with the building of the Senate House Museum. During his life time he played a large part in the social, and political life of this section.

Looking in the "Amusement" section I see the Metropolitan Opera House advertisement for Thursday afternoon, Jan. 18, 1894, featuring the grand concert of Sousa and his band, Lillian Russell, and others. This was "in aid of the press and other charity funds" prices were 25 cents, 50, 75 and $1. Boxes were $6, $9 and $10.

A.B.C. Insigne Is the Hallmark Of Circulation

This is the hallmark of circulation value—and to be displayed, it must first have been earned. It is the insigne of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, the bureau of circulation standards for the advertising and publishing industry.

Our display of this symbol means that our circulation has measured up to A.B.C. requirements and standards.

Just as the manufacturer and merchant buy and sell merchandise on the basis of known standards of grade, weight and measure, so are we prepared to tell advertisers all about our circulation, thanks to A.B.C.

In fact, that's why we belong to the Bureau—to give our advertisers a verified count and description of the circulation audience they get when they buy advertising in The Kingston Daily Freeman.

There are definite standards for advertising values as well as for merchandise. We believe that newspaper advertising should be bought and sold on the basis of these standards.

ABC IS A NONPROFIT, cooperative association with 3,575 advertiser, advertising agency and publisher members in the United States and Canada. It employs a staff of experienced circulation auditors, who regularly visit all publisher members to make exhaustive audits of their circulation records. The information from these audits is then issued in reports which are available to advertisers.

Our A.B.C. reports serve us as editorial guides, too. By knowing, through the continuing picture presented in our ABC reports, exactly how large our circulation is and where our subscribers live, we can arrange our editorial coverage to best serve the interests of our readers.

FOR OUR ADVERTISERS, our A.B.C. membership means verified circulation information, based on uniform standards and accepted practices. Since A.B.C. audits only publications with net paid circulation, our membership assures advertisers that The Kingston Daily Freeman stays in business by the voluntary support of its readers.

In order to maintain that voluntary support, we must demonstrate our responsiveness and responsibility to our readers. The A.B.C. audit of circulation tells both the advertiser and the editor whether our newspaper is performing a service to our readers.

The Kingston Daily Freeman is proud to display the hallmark of circulation value—the symbol of our membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulation — which has become synonymous with the words "factual" and "integrity" in the protection of both the advertiser and the reader.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

The wife says, "Hubby, I'll drive, you park the car and I'll do some shopping."

"Sure, Wifey. I'll make the money you spend. Anyhow, I'll try."

One can slide down hill; but sister, try to slide up!"

General Ike, by choice of the people, got the job when the works were on the "slide." To slam on the brakes too hard would probably cause a smash-up.

Mr. Hutton

The "Dealers," for the past twenty years, manipulated the "works" for votes. They damned business as dishonest and public enemies. They created class hatred.

The busy bees, who gathered the honey, were classed as "money bags."

Our President is slowly climbing up the slide. He did not put the tax or debt structure on the books. He respects our Constitutional Way of Life. The "Dealers" did not. Neither did they balance the budget but three times in the past twenty years when they held all the cards.

Some of the "Dealers'" deals are beyond immediate repair and will have to stay in the shop for some time.

Our President is your best hope, Mr. Businessman. Stay on the team. Run interference. Should the left-wingers return to power, you are washed up.

"Ike" can drive and park the car as well. Otherwise the southpaws will do the driving, but will never park.

How about it, neighbor?

Why We Say--

A modern-day chauffeur might be insulted if he were asked to stoke a fire besides driving an automobile. Actually the word means one who stokes the fire (from the French). In 1900 the word was switched to an automobile driver because cars burned wood and had to be stoked by the chauffeur.

De Sapio Accuses Republicans Over Javits Incident

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Democratic National Committeeman Carmine G. DeSapio, charging bigotry, says that in the upstate campaign the Republican party has "disowned" its candidate for state attorney general, Rep. Jacob K. Javits.

He says the Republicans are playing "dirty, bigoted, rotten politics" upstate.

DeSapio made the accusation last night in answer to a question from one of about 150 students at the New York University "workshop in practical politics."

DeSapio, leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization, said that upstate Javits' "own Republican party has disowned him, and pretends that he isn't even a candidate."

HE SAID HIS comments were based on a political advertisement in the Syracuse Herald-Journal on Oct. 1. The advertisement, DeSapio said, listed all the Republican candidates for major state office except Javits. DeSapio said Javits' name and picture both were missing.

"I don't know whether they omitted Mr. Javits because his name is Javits," DeSapio continued, "or because he is alleged to be a liberal thinker or because the Republican party upstate is ashamed that it had to put a New York city resident on the ticket.

"Whatever the reason, the fact is that Javits . . . is running only in New York city insofar as the Republican party is concerned.

"If this isn't dirty, bigoted, rotten politics which hits a new low in disgraceful conduct and in adherence to the unsavory doctrine of trying to be all things to all people, then I ask you what it is."

DE SAPIO SAID Javits should advise upstate voters that he considers as an "affront" the methods "his own party is using to hide him in the same closet where so many Republican skeletons are buried."

De Sapio spoke shortly after Javits had criticiezd him and Tammany Hall in a radio speech. Commenting on Javits' speech, De Sapio defended his record as Manhattan leader and defended Tammany Hall against what he called "sinister" implications by the Republicans.

Javits has been sent to Congress from a Manhattan district with both the Republican and Liberal party nominations. In the campaign for attorney general, the Liberal party nominated his Democratic opponent, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Roosevelt and the Democratic-Liberal party candidate for governor, former Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman, continued campaigning here.

STUMPING IN UPPER Manhattan last night, Roosevelt called the GOP a party of "principles of high finance and low performance." He assailed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's administration on the issues of education financing, harness race track scandals and rent control.

Harriman spoke yesterday at a daytime street rally of 5,000 to 6,000 persons in the garment manufacturing center, and later attended the formal opening of headquarters of a Democratic Citizens Committee.

Roosevelt appeared with Harriman at the garment center rally. At the committee headquarters they were joined by their running mates — Bronx Dist. Atty. George B. DeLuca, candidate for lieutenant governor, and city Board of Education President Arthur Levitt, candidate for comptroller.

HARRIMAN URGED the gathering at the committee headquarters to "get the story around that we Democrats believe in the spirit of unity among the people of our state and the Republicans are trying to build up a spirit of hatred among the people of the state."

Thomas K. Finletter, former air secretary, and Mrs. David M. Levy head the citizens committee. The committee released a list of officers including: Honorary chairmen—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, Mayor Robert F. Wagner and former Postmaster General James A. Farley; and honorary vice chairmen — Mayor Steven Pankow of Buffalo, Mayor Donald W. Kramer of Binghamton, and Thomas W. Higgins, president of the Merchants National Bank of Buffalo.

Harriman spoke from the back of a truck at the garment center rally, sponsored by the Liberal party.

He told his audience that "when the chips were down on the real issues that affect you," his Republican opponent, U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, "ran out and went with the Old Guard."

When today's hand was played in the national team championship a few weeks ago, it was difficult for South to stay out of trouble. In one room, the South player got to four hearts and went down one trick quickly and quietly. In the other room, as shown in the diagram, South got to three no-trump and muffed his chance to make that contract.

West opened the queen of spades, and South properly allowed him to hold the trick. West continued with the jack of spades, and South won with the king. It was now clear that West had a long spade suit, headed by all of the missing strength, since otherwise he wouldn't have been so eager to hammer away at South's bad suit.

South needed the diamonds to make his contract, so he led a diamond towards the dummy and finessed dummy's queen. When this held, South drew a sigh of relief and cashed the ace of diamonds. South had sighed too soon for this was a mistake.

West naturally played the king of diamonds, and the next diamond trick was won by East. It was easy for East to return his last spade, whereupon West set the contract by taking the rest of the spades.

South knew that he had to lose a diamond trick no matter how favorably the suit might break. (Even if you give West the king-jack of diamonds, East will still have 10-x-x and must make a trick.) The important thing was to lose the diamond trick to West rather than to East in order to avoid losing a total of four spade tricks.

When the finesse of the queen of diamonds succeeds, South must lead a heart to his king and return another diamond towards the dummy. West must play the king, of course, and he should be allowed to hold the trick. Now West can take only two further spade tricks, but he cannot prevent declarer from winning the contract with three hearts, four diamonds, a spade, and a club.

It is quite true that West might have more than two diamonds, but this wouldn't alter the situation. If West is able to play a low diamond on the second round of that suit, dummy can play the ace and give the third trick to West's king.

If West puts up the king of diamonds on the second round, he is allowed to hold the trick. This play makes sure that West wins the only defensive diamond trick.

De Sapio Accuses Republicans Over Javits Incident

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Democratic National Committeeman Carmine G. DeSapio, charging bigotry, says that in the upstate campaign the Republican party has "disowned" its candidate for state attorney general, Rep. Jacob K. Javits.

He says the Republicans are playing "dirty, bigoted, rotten politics" upstate.

DeSapio made the accusation last night in answer to a question from one of about 150 students at the New York University "workshop in practical politics."

DeSapio, leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization, said that upstate Javits' "own Republican party has disowned him, and pretends that he isn't even a candidate."

HE SAID HIS comments were based on a political advertisement in the Syracuse Herald-Journal on Oct. 1. The advertisement, DeSapio said, listed all the Republican candidates for major state office except Javits. DeSapio said Javits' name and picture both were missing.

"I don't know whether they omitted Mr. Javits because his name is Javits," DeSapio continued, "or because he is alleged to be a liberal thinker or because the Republican party upstate is ashamed that it had to put a New York city resident on the ticket.

"Whatever the reason, the fact is that Javits . . . is running only in New York city insofar as the Republican party is concerned.

"If this isn't dirty, bigoted, rotten politics which hits a new low in disgraceful conduct and in adherence to the unsavory doctrine of trying to be all things to all people, then I ask you what it is."

DE SAPIO SAID Javits should advise upstate voters that he considers as an "affront" the methods "his own party is using to hide him in the same closet where so many Republican skeletons are buried."

De Sapio spoke shortly after Javits had criticiezd him and Tammany Hall in a radio speech. Commenting on Javits' speech, De Sapio defended his record as Manhattan leader and defended Tammany Hall against what he called "sinister" implications by the Republicans.

Javits has been sent to Congress from a Manhattan district with both the Republican and Liberal party nominations. In the campaign for attorney general, the Liberal party nominated his Democratic opponent, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Roosevelt and the Democratic-Liberal party candidate for governor, former Mutual Security Administrator Averell Harriman, continued campaigning here.

STUMPING IN UPPER Manhattan last night, Roosevelt called the GOP a party of "principles of high finance and low performance." He assailed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's administration on the issues of education financing, harness race track scandals and rent control.

Harriman spoke yesterday at a daytime street rally of 5,000 to 6,000 persons in the garment manufacturing center, and later attended the formal opening of headquarters of a Democratic Citizens Committee.

Roosevelt appeared with Harriman at the garment center rally. At the committee headquarters they were joined by their running mates — Bronx Dist. Atty. George B. DeLuca, candidate for lieutenant governor, and city Board of Education President Arthur Levitt, candidate for comptroller.

HARRIMAN URGED the gathering at the committee headquarters to "get the story around that we Democrats believe in the spirit of unity among the people of our state and the Republicans are trying to build up a spirit of hatred among the people of the state."

Thomas K. Finletter, former air secretary, and Mrs. David M. Levy head the citizens committee. The committee released a list of officers including: Honorary chairmen—Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, Mayor Robert F. Wagner and former Postmaster General James A. Farley; and honorary vice chairmen — Mayor Steven Pankow of Buffalo, Mayor Donald W. Kramer of Binghamton, and Thomas W. Higgins, president of the Merchants National Bank of Buffalo.

Harriman spoke from the back of a truck at the garment center rally, sponsored by the Liberal party.

He told his audience that "when the chips were down on the real issues that affect you," his Republican opponent, U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, "ran out and went with the Old Guard."

When today's hand was played in the national team championship a few weeks ago, it was difficult for South to stay out of trouble. In one room, the South player got to four hearts and went down one trick quickly and quietly. In the other room, as shown in the diagram, South got to three no-trump and muffed his chance to make that contract.

West opened the queen of spades, and South properly allowed him to hold the trick. West continued with the jack of spades, and South won with the king. It was now clear that West had a long spade suit, headed by all of the missing strength, since otherwise he wouldn't have been so eager to hammer away at South's bad suit.

South needed the diamonds to make his contract, so he led a diamond towards the dummy and finessed dummy's queen. When this held, South drew a sigh of relief and cashed the ace of diamonds. South had sighed too soon for this was a mistake.

West naturally played the king of diamonds, and the next diamond trick was won by East. It was easy for East to return his last spade, whereupon West set the contract by taking the rest of the spades.

South knew that he had to lose a diamond trick no matter how favorably the suit might break. (Even if you give West the king-jack of diamonds, East will still have 10-x-x and must make a trick.) The important thing was to lose the diamond trick to West rather than to East in order to avoid losing a total of four spade tricks.

When the finesse of the queen of diamonds succeeds, South must lead a heart to his king and return another diamond towards the dummy. West must play the king, of course, and he should be allowed to hold the trick. Now West can take only two further spade tricks, but he cannot prevent declarer from winning the contract with three hearts, four diamonds, a spade, and a club.

It is quite true that West might have more than two diamonds, but this wouldn't alter the situation. If West is able to play a low diamond on the second round of that suit, dummy can play the ace and give the third trick to West's king.

If West puts up the king of diamonds on the second round, he is allowed to hold the trick. This play makes sure that West wins the only defensive diamond trick.

It is expected that George Dennis, scout executive, will be present and bring greetings.

Proposal Is Made 3 States Prepare Future Growth

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—City Administrator Luther Gulick said today the states of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut should get together to plan for future growth of the New York metropolitan area.

In a speech prepared for the 25th anniversary conference of the Regional Plan Assn., Gulick said that in the next 25 years the area will face major problems in water supply, pollution control, transportation and port administration and control.

Future development of the area and solution of its numerous problems, he continued, will come "not through the extension of the boundaries of the city of New York or through the creation of a super planning agency, but rather through the extension, modification and democratization of the interstate and operating authorities."

GULICK SAID the governors of the three states should make a "bold move" to set up a joint interstate metropolitan government development commission. This commission should be given at least three years to make a study of the area, he added, and then "bring in the required specific plan of action ready for presentation by the governors to the several state legislatures."

Gulick told the planning association his suggestions are those of a private citizen and represent "in no sense an official point of view."

Salaries Are Credited

Albany, Oct. 6 (AP)—The education department today credited improved salary schedules for elementary school teachers with stimulating interest in the state's intensive teacher training program. The department reported that 788 liberal arts graduates had enrolled for summer courses this year in state teachers colleges and private colleges in connection with the program, and said: "Reawakening of interest in teaching as a career is attributed in large measure to the more attractive salary schedules adopted during the past few years."

Add One, Two; 100 Becomes 300

Rutherford, N. J., Oct. 6 (AP) — Here's what they're telling at the Hasselhuhn Williams Co. today:

Seems the company was bothered by about 100 pigeons fluttering around a coal pocket. How to get rid of them was the question.

Up popped Steve Podlowski, an employe, who suggested what he called an "old family remedy." This was to mix a batch of cracked corn with some hard liquor.

Object? To get the birds drunk and keep them away from the coal pocket.

The mixture was mixed. It was spread around the coal yard.

Today about 300 pigeons showed up.

McGovern Plans Two Area Talks

(By The Associated Press)

State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, moved into the second day today of a three-day, seven-county campaign tour.

McGovern opened his tour at Saranac Lake yesterday, briefly at Elizabethtown and Ticonderoga, and spoke at a dinner in Glens Falls last night.

Stops today included Saratoga Springs, Amsterdam, Fonda, Canajoharie, Fort Plain, and St. Johnsville. He was to speak at late afternoon rallies in Johnstown (5 p. m.) and Gloversville (6 p. m.).

Tomorrow's schedule: 10:30 a. m., arrive Hudson, meeting at Gen. Worth Hotel; noon, arrive Poughkeepsie, meeting at Nelson House; 6 p. m., arrive New York city; 10:30 television show "Between the Lines" (WABD).

Nursing Home Parley Set

During a recent meeting at the DeWitt Clinton Hotel in Albany, plans were made for the fifth annual convention of the New York State Nursing Home Association scheduled for Oct. 9, 10 and 11 in Albany. Melvin Case, who is convention chairman, said between 200 and 250 members will attend. Hari Eklund, state president of White Plains and Miss Zuzie Seigal, national president of Mt. Vernon, also will attend.

Conference Is Held

Rome, Oct. 6 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce conferred today with Italian foreign minister, Gaetano Martino. The subject of their conference was not announced, but it probably concerned Trieste. Earlier Mrs. Luce called upon President Luigi Einaudi to deliver a message of congratulations from President Eisenhower upon yesterday's Yugolsav-Italian agreement on Trieste.

'Fraud' Is Charged

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey accuses the Democrats of a "dirty fraud" in their claims that the Republicans attempted to "rig" the Nov. 2 election by splitting up the registration period. Gubernatorial candidate Averell Harriman and other leading Democrats have said the GOP-controlled Legislature and Dewey split the registration days in an effort to confuse voters and keep down the registration in Democratic New York city.

Band Leader's Father Is Dead

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 6 (AP)—Guy Lombardo, Sr., father of a musical family which includes orchestra leader Guy Lombardo, died last night after a brief illness. He was 81 years old.

He died in the 22-room house, Stonehenge, which the Lombardo brothers — Guy, Carmen, Lebert, Victor and Joseph — built for him on 15 acres of land in the Hillcrest section of Stamford.

It was in this same house that the elder Lombardos celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 19, 1951.

His sons credited the elder Lombardo with influencing them to orgainize the Royal Canadians orchestra which Guy, Jr., made famous.

LOMBARDO WAS BORN in Lipari, Italy, and settled as a boy of 14 years in London, Ontario, Canada, where for years he operated a tailor shop. He retired in 1928 and came to Stamford seven years later.

Besides his five sons, he leaves his widow, the former Angelina Palladino; two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Gardner, whose husband is a member of the Lombardo band; and Mrs. Sidney Rogers, the Rosemarie of Lombardo's band; two sisters, one of whom lives in Italy and the other, Mrs. Mary Cascelli, in Rochester, N. Y., and six grandchildren.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Catherine's R. C. Church in Greenwich Friday at an hour to be announced later. Burial will be private.

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

Conference Is Held

Rome, Oct. 6 (AP)—U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce conferred today with Italian foreign minister, Gaetano Martino. The subject of their conference was not announced, but it probably concerned Trieste. Earlier Mrs. Luce called upon President Luigi Einaudi to deliver a message of congratulations from President Eisenhower upon yesterday's Yugolsav-Italian agreement on Trieste.

'Fraud' Is Charged

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey accuses the Democrats of a "dirty fraud" in their claims that the Republicans attempted to "rig" the Nov. 2 election by splitting up the registration period. Gubernatorial candidate Averell Harriman and other leading Democrats have said the GOP-controlled Legislature and Dewey split the registration days in an effort to confuse voters and keep down the registration in Democratic New York city.

Band Leader's Father Is Dead

Stamford, Conn., Oct. 6 (AP)—Guy Lombardo, Sr., father of a musical family which includes orchestra leader Guy Lombardo, died last night after a brief illness. He was 81 years old.

He died in the 22-room house, Stonehenge, which the Lombardo brothers — Guy, Carmen, Lebert, Victor and Joseph — built for him on 15 acres of land in the Hillcrest section of Stamford.

It was in this same house that the elder Lombardos celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Aug. 19, 1951.

His sons credited the elder Lombardo with influencing them to orgainize the Royal Canadians orchestra which Guy, Jr., made famous.

LOMBARDO WAS BORN in Lipari, Italy, and settled as a boy of 14 years in London, Ontario, Canada, where for years he operated a tailor shop. He retired in 1928 and came to Stamford seven years later.

Besides his five sons, he leaves his widow, the former Angelina Palladino; two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Gardner, whose husband is a member of the Lombardo band; and Mrs. Sidney Rogers, the Rosemarie of Lombardo's band; two sisters, one of whom lives in Italy and the other, Mrs. Mary Cascelli, in Rochester, N. Y., and six grandchildren.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Catherine's R. C. Church in Greenwich Friday at an hour to be announced later. Burial will be private.

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Ar People etc.)

WHEN WE DON'T WANT THEIR DOG TOO!

A reader tells me: "What is the etiquette concerning a visiting dog? In other words, the situation is this: My brother and sister-in-law have a dog which they insist upon taking visiting with them every place they go. He is a big dog and very lively. They bring him to our house all the time but since we have a dog of our own we cannot very well shut the door to him and say "No dogs allowed." He races wildly through the house and upsets our poor old dog who has long since passed his playful, puppy days. How can we gently, but firmly, ask them not to bring their dog to our house without hurting their feelings?"

The fact that you have a dog makes it easier—tell them how your "poor old dog" feels and perhaps they'll show some human consideration for him.

Should She Curtsy?

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been teaching my young daughter to curtsy. The other day when my mother-in-law noticed her doing this, she was very much surprised and said that curtsying belongs in the past and that little girls of today no longer do it. Will you please tell me if she is right about this?

Answer: It was an established custom of yesterday but is followed in very few communities today.

Tipping Servants

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to spend a weekend at a friends house, is it good taste to tip the household servants? It has always been my belief that this is not only incorrect, but also an insult to the host and hostess. However, a friend of mine tells me that I am wrong. What is your opinion?

Answer: Your friend is right—when staying overnight in a person's house you do very definitely give tips.

What does the well-dressed business woman wear? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but readers wishing an answer to the above question will find it in leaflet E-35, "The Well-Dressed Woman." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Good Taste Today

By EMILY POST

(Author of Etiquette, Children Ar People etc.)

WHEN WE DON'T WANT THEIR DOG TOO!

A reader tells me: "What is the etiquette concerning a visiting dog? In other words, the situation is this: My brother and sister-in-law have a dog which they insist upon taking visiting with them every place they go. He is a big dog and very lively. They bring him to our house all the time but since we have a dog of our own we cannot very well shut the door to him and say "No dogs allowed." He races wildly through the house and upsets our poor old dog who has long since passed his playful, puppy days. How can we gently, but firmly, ask them not to bring their dog to our house without hurting their feelings?"

The fact that you have a dog makes it easier—tell them how your "poor old dog" feels and perhaps they'll show some human consideration for him.

Should She Curtsy?

Dear Mrs. Post: I have been teaching my young daughter to curtsy. The other day when my mother-in-law noticed her doing this, she was very much surprised and said that curtsying belongs in the past and that little girls of today no longer do it. Will you please tell me if she is right about this?

Answer: It was an established custom of yesterday but is followed in very few communities today.

Tipping Servants

Dear Mrs. Post: When invited to spend a weekend at a friends house, is it good taste to tip the household servants? It has always been my belief that this is not only incorrect, but also an insult to the host and hostess. However, a friend of mine tells me that I am wrong. What is your opinion?

Answer: Your friend is right—when staying overnight in a person's house you do very definitely give tips.

What does the well-dressed business woman wear? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but readers wishing an answer to the above question will find it in leaflet E-35, "The Well-Dressed Woman." To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Just one last second guess on the World Series. What was Lopez saving Bob Feller for? Please don't say the junior prom.

Ken Hyatt points out that in Brigadier General Eddie Messinger's day Poughkeepsie, not Newburgh Academy, was the "big game" for Kingston High. He suggests that the proposed civic reception for the former Army football star be tied in with the Kingston-Poughkeepsie game at Dietz Stadium on Saturday, Nov. 13.

Hyatt has a splendid suggestion but for one drawback. As commandant of West Point, Messinger supervises all out of town football trips for the Cadets. And Nov. 13 is the date Army plays Penn at Franklin Field.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The 66th National Horse Show is scheduled at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 2-9. Spain will send a team for the first time since 1926. Phil Corrado, the Durocher rooter, got to meet the Giant manager during the first game of the World Series. Among the major league stars playing in the Newburgh exhibition Sunday are Al Corwin, Giants; Cal Abrams, Pirates; Sam Dente and Bill Glynn, Indians; Dick Brodowski, Red Sox. Fritz Jordan, the peppery Arlington High school coach, has placed five Dutchess county scholastic baseball wizards with the New York Giants this year. The list includes Jimmy Hubble, former Wappingers Central whiz, Bob McKenna of Poughkeepsie; Wilson Miller and Dan Bertolette, Arlington; and Bobby Reed of Millbrook.

Eighteen Northeastern PGA pros took 36 tries on Twaalfskill's rugged par-3 third hole and came up with 12 pars and a birdie-2. Scotty Robertson, who bagged the deuce, toured the last nine in 31, but missed a birdie on the easy fourth hole where the pros had a dozen 3s and a deuce by Eddie Brown. Gene Freer had the winning horse in the Kentucky Derby tournament at Twaalfskill. Clarence "Dubby" Raichle and Floyd W. Flint deserve a hand for putting over Twaalfskill's greatest golf show—the Sunday Pro-Member in which 68 players participated. The halfway goal for the 1955 American Bowling Congress tournament was passed Sept. 28 when 3159 reservations had been processed by Joe Smolen, manager of reservations. The 71-day tournament, which runs from March 26 through June 4, at Fort Wayne, will accommodate 6040 teams. Addison Jones is handling local entries.

The customers always write, especially if they are New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians have just been swept. Ed Radel sent along a batch of screaming black headlines proclaiming the Giant victories 'Just in case he missed them.' He being Craig Plough 'that frustrated Dodger rooter who is wearing the Cleveland pennant in his lapel' . . . A postcard from Nate Markson in New York . . . "Just think how lucky those Yanks are in not having to play the Giants this year . . . What a team!" It's even money a poll of Giant rooters BEFORE the series would have revealed a preference for the Indians over the Yankees as opponents for the Giants. From faraway Delray Beach, Fla., Marty Kellenberger, the 'Old Owl' of the bowling lanes chides Casey Stengel for not remembering John McGraw's theory that in order to win a pennant you have to slaughter the weak teams . . . Boston Red Sox included. And, Kellenberger asks, how did "all you sportswriters ever decide the Indians could beat the Giants??"

After the series, Casey Stengel demanded a recount on the American League race. He suspects the Indians stuffed the ballot box. Frank Lane of the White Sox says the rest of the AL should sue the Indians. Can you blame them?

14 Games Planned For Each Team

The DUSO Basketball League has adopted a 14-game conference type schedule for the 1955-56 and 1956-57 seasons, Superintendent of Schools Arthur Laidlaw announced today.

Laidlaw, who is president of the DUSO League, made the announcement after a compromise had been reached here yesterday in the long standing controversy between the village and city schools in the DUSO circuit.

Athletic directors of the nine DUSO schools agreed unanimously to recommend the 14-game conference slate to the league council.

Confirmation of recommendations by the ADs is generally automatic.

The 1954-55 schedule will be the same as in the past few years with 16 league games.

THE NEW SETUP provides 14 games for each school except in a couple of cases where the schedule doesn't come out even.

Under this system each of the village schools will have only one game with two of the city schools.

Kingston, Newburgh, Middletown and Poughkeepsie are regarded as the "bigger" schools of the DUSO circuit.

Athletic directors failed to reach an agreement here two weeks ago, with village schools reportedly holding out for a 12-game conference slate. The meeting adjourned until yesterday when disagreements were ironed out and plans formulated for the next three seasons.

Football schedules for 1955-56-57 were also approved.

Ohio Syndicate Seeks to Buy The Indians

Cleveland, Oct. 6 (AP) — A Cleveland industrialist has been hinting at a deal pending for the sale of the Cleveland Indians, but the baseball club management declares that no bona fide offer has been made.

Joseph E. Cole, president of the National Key Co., and a minor stockholder in the Indians, said yesterday he heads a "fine, civic-minded group of men" seeking to buy the Tribe, and he added, "I only hope the premature publicity will not kill things."

Cole continued:

"These men are interested in improving Cleveland baseball and financial considerations are secondary. If we are successful in obtaining the team, I believe it will be good for the city and the Indians."

The club's president, Myron H. Wilson, issued a statement which he said came "as a result of the various rumors" about the proposals. The statement read:

"At no time have we ever attempted to secure any offers for the sale of the ball club. Furthermore, we have never received a bona fide offer. At the present time our only interest is centered in improving the Indians for 1955."

Curtis High Halfback Tops in Met District

Scores Four TDs In First Two Games

A revenge-minded Curtis High School football squad out of Port Richmond, Staten Island, will unleash one of the flashiest halfbacks in the metropolitan district against Kingston High Saturday afternoon at Dietz Stadium.

On the basis of his heroics in two straight winning efforts by the Indians, he is as tough on opposing tacklers as his name is on linguists.

JIM PIETRACATELLA, a large mouthful in any language, is the name to remember. He will be operating out of Curtis' split-T and already has racked up four touchdowns for the unbeaten Indians.

Pietracatella opened the season modestly enough with a single TD against Flushing which Curtis defeated 20-10. Last Saturday, Jim romped to his second, third and fourth touchdowns in the breeze over Adams High.

The brilliant young back will be surrounded by a highly competent cast who are anxious to do something about Curtis' poor record against Kingston.

Pietracatella came along just in time for the Staten Islanders. They lost hard running Johnny Klumbach by graduation last June and Klumbach, always a terror to Kingston, was one of the best backs the school ever had.

IT DEVELOPED, however, that Klumbach was even more talented as a baseball played. He was signed by the Cincinnati Reds and will start his minor league career next spring.

Curtis High is anxious to check Kingston's three-year winning streak and they figure Pietracatella is the man to lead them down the glory road.

Kingston won the series opener, 6-0, in 1951. In 1952 it was Kingston by 25-7. Last year the Maroons pulled out a thriller, 26-18, with thirteen points in fourth quarter.

Coach Bill Burke the other day recalled an admonition of the Curtis coach.

"Your gang is licking us steadily," he told Burke, "but one of these years soon we're going to take you . . . but good."

Down at Curtis High they're convinced that this is the year.

Stan Hack Re-Hired

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, as they had indicated earlier, yesterday signed Stan Hack to manage the club for a second year.

Hack took over as manager of the Cubs last spring after Phil Cavarretta quit. The Cubs finished in seventh place, two notches below their 1952 finish. They haven't finished in the first division since 1946 when they were third after winning the National League Pennant in 1945.

Terms of Hack's one-year contract were not announced.

The Cubs won 64 and lost 90 games this year, compared to a won-lost record of 65 and 89 in 1953.

Stanford Center Lineman of Week

(By The Associated Press)

Jerry Goldberg, 20-year-old Stanford senior center, was selected today as the first Associated Press "Lineman of the Week" for the 1954 football season.

Goldberg, a 60-minute man, played a major role in Stanford's surprise 12-2 victory over Illinois in Saturday's nationally televised game from Palo Alto. He was the man mainly responsible for keeping Illinois touchdown twins, J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates, bottled up.

Stanford Coach Chuch Taylor explained it this way:

"Our whole defense was keyed to Goldberg getting through the holes left by the Illinois guards pulling out (to run interference). He played well on every play and turned in one of his most solid games."

Goldberg's selection followed the naming of Lenny Dawson, Purdue halfback, as the "Back of the Week" on Tuesday. Dawson fired four touchdown passes that led Purdue to a surprise victory over Notre Dame.

Ohio Syndicate Seeks to Buy The Indians

Cleveland, Oct. 6 (AP) — A Cleveland industrialist has been hinting at a deal pending for the sale of the Cleveland Indians, but the baseball club management declares that no bona fide offer has been made.

Joseph E. Cole, president of the National Key Co., and a minor stockholder in the Indians, said yesterday he heads a "fine, civic-minded group of men" seeking to buy the Tribe, and he added, "I only hope the premature publicity will not kill things."

Cole continued:

"These men are interested in improving Cleveland baseball and financial considerations are secondary. If we are successful in obtaining the team, I believe it will be good for the city and the Indians."

The club's president, Myron H. Wilson, issued a statement which he said came "as a result of the various rumors" about the proposals. The statement read:

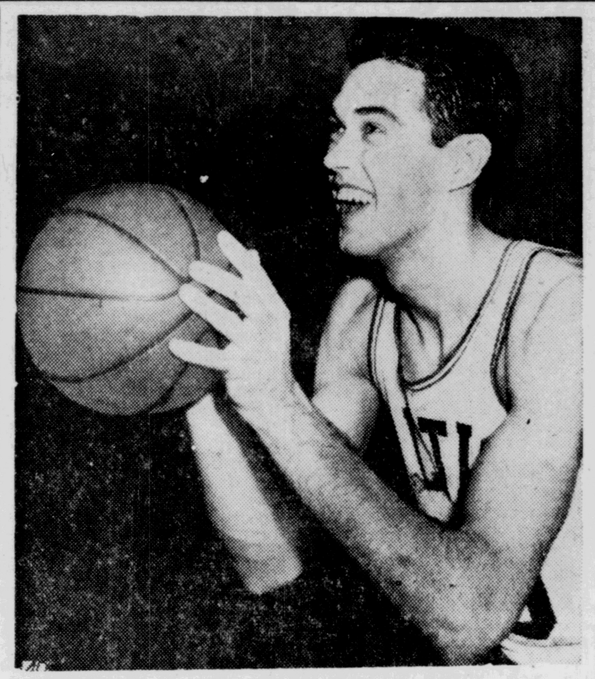
"At no time have we ever attempted to secure any offers for the sale of the ball club. Furthermore, we have never received a bona fide offer. At the present time our only interest is centered in improving the Indians for 1955."

Bell Drives Three Winners at Yonkers

Yonkers, Oct. 6 (AP) — Hugh Bell, 52-year-old Marion, Ohio, reinsman, drove three winners at Yonkers Raceway last night, including Date Knight in the featured $3,500 Briarcliff pace.

Bell started his triple with G. U. Coger's Gay Boy of Rochelle, N. J. and then won the fifth with Down Town, owned by George F. Benham of Baldwin, N. Y.

He brought the 3-year old filly Date Knight home in 2:04.4 to pay $23.50 for a $2 win mutuel ticket. Date Knight is owned by William F. Martin of Washington, D. C.



DIFFERENT PITCH—Gene Conley, towering righthander for the Milwaukee Braves, sets sights on a basket during a workout at Browne and Nichols school gymnasium in Cambridge, Mass. Gene, six-foot, eight-inch former Washington State College student, from Richland, Wash., had just signed a contract to play with the Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association this year. He has a reputation as an outstanding rebounder. (AP Wirephoto).

Curtis High Halfback Tops in Met District

Scores Four TDs In First Two Games

A revenge-minded Curtis High School football squad out of Port Richmond, Staten Island, will unleash one of the flashiest halfbacks in the metropolitan district against Kingston High Saturday afternoon at Dietz Stadium.

On the basis of his heroics in two straight winning efforts by the Indians, he is as tough on opposing tacklers as his name is on linguists.

JIM PIETRACATELLA, a large mouthful in any language, is the name to remember. He will be operating out of Curtis' split-T and already has racked up four touchdowns for the unbeaten Indians.

Pietracatella opened the season modestly enough with a single TD against Flushing which Curtis defeated 20-10. Last Saturday, Jim romped to his second, third and fourth touchdowns in the breeze over Adams High.

The brilliant young back will be surrounded by a highly competent cast who are anxious to do something about Curtis' poor record against Kingston.

Pietracatella came along just in time for the Staten Islanders. They lost hard running Johnny Klumbach by graduation last June and Klumbach, always a terror to Kingston, was one of the best backs the school ever had.

IT DEVELOPED, however, that Klumbach was even more talented as a baseball played. He was signed by the Cincinnati Reds and will start his minor league career next spring.

Curtis High is anxious to check Kingston's three-year winning streak and they figure Pietracatella is the man to lead them down the glory road.

Kingston won the series opener, 6-0, in 1951. In 1952 it was Kingston by 25-7. Last year the Maroons pulled out a thriller, 26-18, with thirteen points in fourth quarter.

Coach Bill Burke the other day recalled an admonition of the Curtis coach.

"Your gang is licking us steadily," he told Burke, "but one of these years soon we're going to take you . . . but good."

Down at Curtis High they're convinced that this is the year.

Stan Hack Re-Hired

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs, as they had indicated earlier, yesterday signed Stan Hack to manage the club for a second year.

Hack took over as manager of the Cubs last spring after Phil Cavarretta quit. The Cubs finished in seventh place, two notches below their 1952 finish. They haven't finished in the first division since 1946 when they were third after winning the National League Pennant in 1945.

Terms of Hack's one-year contract were not announced.

The Cubs won 64 and lost 90 games this year, compared to a won-lost record of 65 and 89 in 1953.

Stanford Center Lineman of Week

(By The Associated Press)

Jerry Goldberg, 20-year-old Stanford senior center, was selected today as the first Associated Press "Lineman of the Week" for the 1954 football season.

Goldberg, a 60-minute man, played a major role in Stanford's surprise 12-2 victory over Illinois in Saturday's nationally televised game from Palo Alto. He was the man mainly responsible for keeping Illinois touchdown twins, J. C. Caroline and Mickey Bates, bottled up.

Stanford Coach Chuch Taylor explained it this way:

"Our whole defense was keyed to Goldberg getting through the holes left by the Illinois guards pulling out (to run interference). He played well on every play and turned in one of his most solid games."

Goldberg's selection followed the naming of Lenny Dawson, Purdue halfback, as the "Back of the Week" on Tuesday. Dawson fired four touchdown passes that led Purdue to a surprise victory over Notre Dame.

Wisconsin-Rice Clash Stars Fabulous Moegle

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Big Ten's kick for regional television appears out of bounds these days in which three conference teams have appeared on the national screen with a fourth and possibly the best coming up.

Two weeks ago TV fans saw Iowa Whip Michigan State. Last week Stanford humbled Illinois and on Saturday's menu is the Wisconsin-Rice encounter.

Not only will the TV-viewer see a Big Ten favorite up against the Southwest Conference defending co-champion and Cotton Bowl victor, but shaping up is a contest of individuals:

Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche vs fabulous Dicky Moegle of Rice.

MOEGLE is the same youngster whose runs so infuriated Alabama in the Cotton Bowl last January that a 12th man got off the bench to tackle the Owl speedster when he was clear and away to a 95-yard touchdown jaunt.

Moegle hasn't let up since. Against Rice victims Florida and Cornell this year, he has averaged 13.7 yards in 16 carries. The first four times he got his hands on the ball against Cornell, Moegle swept for touchdown runs of 18, 40, 10 and 78 yards.

Rice publicitor Bill Whitmore, telling the Chicago football writers about Moegle yesterday, brought out that Dickey was quite a player even before the bowl game.

"He was sixth in rushing nationally last year with 833 yards," said Whitmore. "Of course he was in the shadow of All-America Kosse Johnson, our fullback last year. Johnson rushed for 944 yards but he had 73 more carries than Moegle."

WHITMORE said he believes the Wisconsin game will be a matter of Rice offense against Wisconsin defense, qualifying that he wasn't selling the Badger offense short.

Wisconsin's answer, of course, is Ameche. But that's not all. Badger quarterbacks Jim Miller and Jim Haluska are passing at a .760 clip this season.

Nevertheless, Ameche is Wisconsin's No. 1 threat. The Horse has picked up 224 yards in triumphs over Marquette and Michigan State. He made the only score of the day in the MSC game ripping off 28 yards for a touchdown.

While Ameche was racking up 127 yards, Wisconsin held Michigan State to a net of eight rushing yards.

That defense, which stopped Leroy Bolden cold Saturday, is almost the same that put the crimp on Illinois star J. C. Caroline last year. Saturday, Moegle will get his chance to solve it.

MEN OF THE WEEK—Bobby McCool, left, is nicknamed Slick because he runs so cleverly for Mississippi. Bob Lauter, center, cracks the line for Northwestern. Ed Bernet is a pass-catching end for Southern Methodist. (NEA)

Norkus-Powell Bout May Develop Heavy Contender

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (AP)—Spurred by the announcement that the winner will be considered a contender for a shot at Rocky Marciano's title, heavyweights Charley Norkus of Port Washington, N. Y., and Charlie Powell, San Diego, battle it out here tonight in a schedule tenrounder.

It promises to be a brawl. The pair are swingers with not much in the way of ring science.

The fight will be nationally televised from the Civic Auditorium, starting at 7 p. m. PST (10 EST over CBS network).

Al Weill, manager of Marciano, announced here yesterday he would consider the winner a contender for a possible crack at the crown next summer.

Powell, a 6-3 fast puncher will be making his TV debut after scoring knockouts in his last 10 bouts. He's strictly on the green side with only 33 rounds of fighting behind him but he throws leather swifter than any heavy seen around here in years.

YOU CAN BE TOO QUIET IN HUNTING!

BIG-GAME ANIMALS ARE SUSPICIOUS OF ANY STEALTHY APPROACH. THEY RELATE IT TO THEIR NATURAL ENEMIES, THE PREDATORS. THE MOST SILENT HUNTER MAY GIVE THEM THE SAME IMPRESSION, ALTHOUGH HE MAY STILL BE NOISIER THAN A BOBCAT OR COUGAR.

ALL GAME, BIG AND SMALL, MAKE NOISE IN MOVING ABOUT, BREAKING TWIGS, BRUSH, ETC. THIS NOISE (IN MODERATION) IS NOT ALARMING. IT SOUNDS LIKE ANOTHER OF THEIR OWN KIND—LIKE ONE DEER TO ANOTHER AS THEY MOVE ALONG SLOWLY, PAUSING TO BROWSE HERE AND THERE.

Newkirk Aces Defeat Profs In Overtime

Newkirk Aces blanked the Profs in the overtime period to score a 56-53 victory in last night's YMCA basketball feature.

B. Smith racked up 23 points for the Aces who led 28-24 at the half. A 12-8 bulge in the fourth quarter enabled the Profs to tie the regulation game at 53-53.

SCHRODER rimmed 17 points for the winners. Frank Secreto hooped 19 and La Forge hit 14 for the Profs.

McCluskey and Kozlowski shared 21 points to pace Rapp's win over the Destroyers. John Burris tallied 15 for the losers. Bucky Miller hit for 10.

Bob Faurote of J&E Milk emerged as the night's leading scorer with 24 points. The Skyline won with better balance, as Lenahan hit 15, and Brannen and Woods had 10 apiece.

Shokan

Shokan, Oct. 6—Registration officials for Olive Election District No. 1 at their sitting last Saturday in Winchell's Hall entered a total of 420 names on the current roll. There is about the usual preponderance of women on the list, their number being 220. The registry board this year is composed of Mary Merrihew, Vera Sickler, Olive Gulnac and Mabel McGowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey of New York were callers in the village Sunday. They are friends of the Edward McLaughlins who have a summer home on the southern slope of High Point. The Baileys formerly resided at Beechford Farms near Boiceville and they have a number of friends in the reservoir country and Shandaken.

Joseph Bogart, Alligerville man whose death took place in Kingston recently, was one of several children of Ephraim and Martha (Connelly) Bogart whose farm home was near the head of the West Butternutkill in the Coons district of Shokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winnie, well-known town of Shandaken antiques collectors, were callers in Shokan Monday.

Wedding anniversaries this week include that of William and Sylvia (Lippman) Cohen, who were married Oct. 6, 1946 in Esopus. The couple moved from Ashokan to Kingston four years ago. Willie is a War 2 veteran and his wife was brought up in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Casablanca have sold their 2½ acre lot on the Ashokan mountain road to Mr. and Mrs. William Wolfe of Brooklyn. The new owners plan to begin the erection of a summer home on the property next spring. The lot many years ago belonged to Laura Cockburn Davis, and at a much earlier period was a field on the extensive farm holdings of Albert and Jemima (Winne) Elmendorf, grandparents of Delta Boice Fromer of Kingston.

Weekend callers at the corner store museum included: Angele Deutsch and Vera Kimche, Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. H. Story of Willow and Mrs. Story's sister, Mrs. Hillman of Westfield, N. J.; Amanda R. Markham, Haverstraw; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chase, long-time residents of Woodstock, and Mrs. Charles Vizzini, new summer resident of Glenford.

Says Bible His Weapon

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Juan Bernardo Lebron, a former president of the New York branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalists, testified yesterday he had never owned or carried a gun. "I don't need any other arms but my Bible," he said in Federal Court where he and 12 other Puerto Ricans are on trial on charges of seditious conspiracy. Bernardo Lebron testified he never advocated violence or plotted overthrow of the U. S. government while he was president of the Nationalist party's New York Junta in 1947 and 1948.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

Whoosh-whoosh-whoosh. The ascending roar and swish of the air wash as speeding cars careened along the highway was a constant threat and reminder, but they wouldn't harm her now where she had crept upon the grass by the wet side of the road.

The dew-wet earth felt good to her feverish body as she lay with a smashed hind leg.

One car had been faster than her calculations, and its speed, together with the blinding headlights, had caused her to miscalculate.

YET HER MASTER would come in one. She didn't have to know that all hound dog men would come if they knew where to go, and she didn't know that he was looking for her many miles away.

Cars passed in the night and became day, and hundreds more flew by. She was weary, but she stayed awake and watched. She didn't hope—she knew.

Wheeling along the highway, I saw her. Though obviously hurt, she was watching every car. The mirror was clear, so I slowed and turned onto the grass and backed up to where she was lying.

The greeting in her eyes and the thump of her tail were encouraging signs. A quick inspection showed that her battered hind leg had not bled too much.

CARE MUST BE taken in handling injured dogs, so I introduced myself cheerfully but slowly and watched her reactions carefully as I lifted her by the collar and an arm under her belly, so as to allow the injured leg to hang as naturally as possible.

Her collar was tagged so that nearby police barracks would locate her owner. Had she not been, I would have taken her to the nearest animal shelter, where she would have been cared for.

As I continued on my way, I did a lot of thinking, but arrived at few answers that made sense. Why would cars by the dozens drive heedlessly by? Were there no dog lovers among the many that passed?

Perhaps we'd better look at ourselves squarely and make up our minds here and now that the next stricken animal that needs help will get it, and as quickly as possible. Sure it's a bit of trouble, but how else can we pay the debt to the worthy dogs that have served us well?

Wisconsin-Rice Clash Stars Fabulous Moegle

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Big Ten's kick for regional television appears out of bounds these days in which three conference teams have appeared on the national screen with a fourth and possibly the best coming up.

Two weeks ago TV fans saw Iowa Whip Michigan State. Last week Stanford humbled Illinois and on Saturday's menu is the Wisconsin-Rice encounter.

Not only will the TV-viewer see a Big Ten favorite up against the Southwest Conference defending co-champion and Cotton Bowl victor, but shaping up is a contest of individuals:

Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche vs fabulous Dicky Moegle of Rice.

MOEGLE is the same youngster whose runs so infuriated Alabama in the Cotton Bowl last January that a 12th man got off the bench to tackle the Owl speedster when he was clear and away to a 95-yard touchdown jaunt.

Moegle hasn't let up since. Against Rice victims Florida and Cornell this year, he has averaged 13.7 yards in 16 carries. The first four times he got his hands on the ball against Cornell, Moegle swept for touchdown runs of 18, 40, 10 and 78 yards.

Rice publicitor Bill Whitmore, telling the Chicago football writers about Moegle yesterday, brought out that Dickey was quite a player even before the bowl game.

"He was sixth in rushing nationally last year with 833 yards," said Whitmore. "Of course he was in the shadow of All-America Kosse Johnson, our fullback last year. Johnson rushed for 944 yards but he had 73 more carries than Moegle."

WHITMORE said he believes the Wisconsin game will be a matter of Rice offense against Wisconsin defense, qualifying that he wasn't selling the Badger offense short.

Wisconsin's answer, of course, is Ameche. But that's not all. Badger quarterbacks Jim Miller and Jim Haluska are passing at a .760 clip this season.

Nevertheless, Ameche is Wisconsin's No. 1 threat. The Horse has picked up 224 yards in triumphs over Marquette and Michigan State. He made the only score of the day in the MSC game ripping off 28 yards for a touchdown.

While Ameche was racking up 127 yards, Wisconsin held Michigan State to a net of eight rushing yards.

That defense, which stopped Leroy Bolden cold Saturday, is almost the same that put the crimp on Illinois star J. C. Caroline last year. Saturday, Moegle will get his chance to solve it.

Norkus-Powell Bout May Develop Heavy Contender

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (AP)—Spurred by the announcement that the winner will be considered a contender for a shot at Rocky Marciano's title, heavyweights Charley Norkus of Port Washington, N. Y., and Charlie Powell, San Diego, battle it out here tonight in a schedule tenrounder.

It promises to be a brawl. The pair are swingers with not much in the way of ring science.

The fight will be nationally televised from the Civic Auditorium, starting at 7 p. m. PST (10 EST over CBS network).

Al Weill, manager of Marciano, announced here yesterday he would consider the winner a contender for a possible crack at the crown next summer.

Powell, a 6-3 fast puncher will be making his TV debut after scoring knockouts in his last 10 bouts. He's strictly on the green side with only 33 rounds of fighting behind him but he throws leather swifter than any heavy seen around here in years.

SPORTSMAN'S DIGEST

By Hal Sharp

YOU CAN BE TOO QUIET IN HUNTING!

BIG-GAME ANIMALS ARE SUSPICIOUS OF ANY STEALTHY APPROACH. THEY RELATE IT TO THEIR NATURAL ENEMIES, THE PREDATORS. THE MOST SILENT HUNTER MAY GIVE THEM THE SAME IMPRESSION, ALTHOUGH HE MAY STILL BE NOISIER THAN A BOBCAT OR COUGAR.

ALL GAME, BIG AND SMALL, MAKE NOISE IN MOVING ABOUT, BREAKING TWIGS, BRUSH, ETC. THIS NOISE (IN MODERATION) IS NOT ALARMING. IT SOUNDS LIKE ANOTHER OF THEIR OWN KIND—LIKE ONE DEER TO ANOTHER AS THEY MOVE ALONG SLOWLY, PAUSING TO BROWSE HERE AND THERE.

Newkirk Aces Defeat Profs In Overtime

Newkirk Aces blanked the Profs in the overtime period to score a 56-53 victory in last night's YMCA basketball feature.

In other games, Rapp's Express trounced the Destroyer Jrs., 54-39, while Skyline won over J&E Milk Bar, 48-38.

B. Smith racked up 23 points for the Aces who led 28-24 at the half. A 12-8 bulge in the fourth quarter enabled the Profs to tie the regulation game at 53-53.

SCHRODER rimmed 17 points for the winners. Frank Secreto hooped 19 and La Forge hit 14 for the Profs.

McCluskey and Kozlowski shared 21 points to pace Rapp's win over the Destroyers. John Burris tallied 15 for the losers. Bucky Miller hit for 10.

Bob Faurote of J&E Milk emerged as the night's leading scorer with 24 points. The Skyline won with better balance, as Lenahan hit 15, and Brannen and Woods had 10 apiece.

Shokan

Shokan, Oct. 6—Registration officials for Olive Election District No. 1 at their sitting last Saturday in Winchell's Hall entered a total of 420 names on the current roll. There is about the usual preponderance of women on the list, their number being 220. The registry board this year is composed of Mary Merrihew, Vera Sickler, Olive Gulnac and Mabel McGowan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey of New York were callers in the village Sunday. They are friends of the Edward McLaughlins who have a summer home on the southern slope of High Point. The Baileys formerly resided at Beechford Farms near Boiceville and they have a number of friends in the reservoir country and Shandaken.

Joseph Bogart, Alligerville man whose death took place in Kingston recently, was one of several children of Ephraim and Martha (Connelly) Bogart whose farm home was near the head of the West Butternutkill in the Coons district of Shokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winnie, well-known town of Shandaken antiques collectors, were callers in Shokan Monday.

Wedding anniversaries this week include that of William and Sylvia (Lippman) Cohen, who were married Oct. 6, 1946 in Esopus. The couple moved from Ashokan to Kingston four years ago. Willie is a War 2 veteran and his wife was brought up in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Casablanca have sold their 2½ acre lot on the Ashokan mountain road to Mr. and Mrs. William Wolfe of Brooklyn. The new owners plan to begin the erection of a summer home on the property next spring. The lot many years ago belonged to Laura Cockburn Davis, and at a much earlier period was a field on the extensive farm holdings of Albert and Jemima (Winne) Elmendorf, grandparents of Delta Boice Fromer of Kingston.

Weekend callers at the corner store museum included: Angele Deutsch and Vera Kimche, Woodstock; Mr. and Mrs. H. Story of Willow and Mrs. Story's sister, Mrs. Hillman of Westfield, N. J.; Amanda R. Markham, Haverstraw; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hill, Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chase, long-time residents of Woodstock, and Mrs. Charles Vizzini, new summer resident of Glenford.

Says Bible His Weapon

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Juan Bernardo Lebron, a former president of the New York branch of the Puerto Rican Nationalists, testified yesterday he had never owned or carried a gun. "I don't need any other arms but my Bible," he said in Federal Court where he and 12 other Puerto Ricans are on trial on charges of seditious conspiracy. Bernardo Lebron testified he never advocated violence or plotted overthrow of the U. S. government while he was president of the Nationalist party's New York Junta in 1947 and 1948.

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By JOE STETSON
(Dog Editor)

Whoosh-whoosh-whoosh. The ascending roar and swish of the air wash as speeding cars careened along the highway was a constant threat and reminder, but they wouldn't harm her now where she had crept upon the grass by the wet side of the road.

The dew-wet earth felt good to her feverish body as she lay with a smashed hind leg.

One car had been faster than her calculations, and its speed, together with the blinding headlights, had caused her to miscalculate.

YET HER MASTER would come in one. She didn't have to know that all hound dog men would come if they knew where to go, and she didn't know that he was looking for her many miles away.

Cars passed in the night and became day, and hundreds more flew by. She was weary, but she stayed awake and watched. She didn't hope—she knew.

Wheeling along the highway, I saw her. Though obviously hurt, she was watching every car. The mirror was clear, so I slowed and turned onto the grass and backed up to where she was lying.

The greeting in her eyes and the thump of her tail were encouraging signs. A quick inspection showed that her battered hind leg had not bled too much.

CARE MUST BE taken in handling injured dogs, so I introduced myself cheerfully but slowly and watched her reactions carefully as I lifted her by the collar and an arm under her belly, so as to allow the injured leg to hang as naturally as possible.

Her collar was tagged so that nearby police barracks would locate her owner. Had she not been, I would have taken her to the nearest animal shelter, where she would have been cared for.

As I continued on my way, I did a lot of thinking, but arrived at few answers that made sense. Why would cars by the dozens drive heedlessly by? Were there no dog lovers among the many that passed?

Perhaps we'd better look at ourselves squarely and make up our minds here and now that the next stricken animal that needs help will get it, and as quickly as possible. Sure it's a bit of trouble, but how else can we pay the debt to the worthy dogs that have served us well?

Nautilus Tests to Be Dockside

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sea trials of the atomic submarine Nautilus have been set back three months or more to permit replacement of steam piping which did not meet the navy's standards.

The defect showed up when a pipe burst on Sept. 18 while routine steam pressure tests were being made while the submarine was at its fitting-out berth at Groton, Conn.

Navy spokesmen said the reason for the dockside test of all the Nautilus' equipment—steam lines, hull and compartment pressure, control mechanism and other equipment—was to spot any weakness before the craft started out under her own power for operational trials.

THE NAVY, for security reasons, has not said where in the intricate atomic furnace-steam turbine system the 1½-inch steam line is used. The navy did say, at the time of the accident which caused minor injury to a yard workman, that the line did not involve the nuclear reactor and that there was no danger of release of radioactivity. This indicated the piping presumably was a component of the conventional steam system.

The 55-million-dollar Nautilus was launched last January.

Ives Says . . .

the State Power Authority's St. Lawrence river project — Ives said Harriman had charged him with having "voted and worked consistently against transmitting to the consumer the savings of low-cost power of the St. Lawrence and Niagara."

"The fact is," Ives replied, "these matters never came to a vote in the Senate. My opponent is once more inventing. He is again saying I cast a vote on issues that never came to a Senate vote at all."

The senator maintained that he had "always been devoted" to both the Niagara and St. Lawrence power proposals.

HE SAID HE HAD introduced bills in Congress to license the power authority to undertake the Niagara project jointly with Canada. And he declared he had "strongly urged" the Federal Power Commission to license the authority for the St. Lawrence project.

The power authority has been authorized to develop hydroelectric power on the St. Lawrence and has left contracts for initial construction.

In a speech before approximately 300 persons at a buffet supper in Watertown last night, Ives reviewed his record on farm price supports and the seaway project, companion to the power development.

He said it was after "searching thought" that he had voted against Eisenhower administration legislation making the United States a partner with Canada in building the seaway.

BUT HE PROMISED that if elected governor he would "use every influence at my command to develop the fullest possible flow of benefits from it" for the state and for the St. Lawrence river area.

Ives said he had voted against the seaway measure in the belief that its "net effect upon the state would be unfavorable."

Turning to agricultural affairs, the senator urged dairy farmers struggling to overcome a milk surplus to "weather this difficult transition" from rigid to flexible crop supports.

Ives recalled that he had voted in favor of measures authorizing the secretary of agriculture to fix federal support for grain crops at between 82½ and 90 pe cent of parity.

Parity is a government yardstick of the relationship between what a farmer pays for the goods he must buy and what he gets for his products.

DAIRY FARMERS have complained that the price support for milk products, reduced last April 1 from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, is lower than the support price for the gain they must buy for their herds.

Ives said that in the changeover from rigid to flexible supports, "there are bound to be situations in which some farmers, such as dairymen, are squeezed by high supports for feed grains."

But "once we weather this difficult transition period," he went on, "we can achieve our goal of freedom and sound prosperity for all of our agriculture."

The senator said "even greater milk consumption is the real and only route to higher dairy income." He promised that if elected governor he would continue Gov. Dewey's current drink-more-milk drive and back "any other feasible proposals."

SEN. GEORGE AIKEN (R-Vt.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, supported Ives' position.

Aiken, formerly a dairy farmer himself, said at Watertown "we're half way out of the woods now" in solving problems created by the milk surplus.

"We can work out our problems. We can raise our own standards better than any government can do it for us," Aiken asserted.

Hazel Heads To Open Water

Miami, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel headed out over open waters of the Caribbean sea today after whirling through the windward islands during the night.

The latest official advisory placed the storm center about 180 miles north of the coast of Venezuela and 460 miles south-southwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico. There are no land areas in its immediate path.

A navy hurricane hunter plane flew into the storm area today.

Mrs. Ives Doesn't Show Concern

Watertown, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Irving M. Ives, splashed last night by the pulp of a ripe tomato, smiled it away today and said: "You wouldn't be angry at a thing like that."

As Sen. Ives, the Republican candidate for governor, addressed an outdoor rally here, a barrage of tomatoes suddenly splattered around the speakers' platform.

One, smashed against the railing a few feet from where Mrs. Ives sat. Crimson juice squirted onto her trim black suit and her marten fur piece. Pulp and seeds dripped down into her pocket.

REFERRING TO the incident as a "tomato surprise," Mrs. Ives commented: "Why let something so small bother you?"

Ives escaped with only a spot of juice the size of a quarter on his hat, which rested on a nearby chair as he spoke. Assemblyman Orin S. Wilcox, Jefferson county Republican, took a direct hit on the thigh and was heavily splashed.

The senator and Mrs. Ives carried on today with an upstate campaign trip taking them to nearby Gouverneur this morning and Ogdensburg this afternoon.

Aldermen OK

gerties before Public Service hearing.

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin Storms thanked Mayor Frederick H. Stang for his efforts in obtaining full-time protection at three city crossings, after the mayor's letter explaining his action, was read.

Storms noted that both himself and Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel had been urging action for protection at the TenBroeck avenue, Gage street and Cemetery road crossings on a 24-hour basis, and he thought the protection gained by the mayor was all that is necessary.

The mayor's letter had explained that the New York Central Railroad had considered electrically-operated automatic protection costly at this time, but agreed, starting Oct. 1, to have 24-hour watchman service "pending installation, at a later date, of automatic protection."

CLAIMS TOTALLING $25,500 were filed by Beatrice and David Adler, of 114 Downs street, for injuries suffered by Mrs. Adler as the result of a fall last June 24 in front of 476 Broadway, due to a defective sidewalk.

Of the total, $5,000 was listed in behalf of David Adler for the loss of services of his wife. The $500 was listed for hospital and nursing expenses.

The claims were referred to Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy. Joseph Avis is counsel for the claimants.

Eight amendments to the city traffic code were adopted after a favorable report by the laws and rules committee.

THEY ARE TO RESTRICT parking on the north side of Andrew street from Broadway to Peter street from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., to designate a pedestrian crossing near the IBM building on Grand street, prohibit parking in front of the Kingston Powerboat Association property on Abeel street, install stop-signs on Mountain View avenue at Main street, at Furnace and Liberty streets, Murray street and Hasbrouck avenue, and establish a loading zone at the A. H. Gildersleeve building on Broadway, and one at the Dwyer store, Broadway and Field Court.

The aldermen voted special assessments for sewer installations in Stuyvesant street between Chambers and Livingston streets; Ponckhockie street, between Yeomans and Walnut streets; West Chestnut street (Dietz Court and Melvin Drive) between West Chestnut and McEntee streets; and Cross street, between First and Second avenues.

A deed offered to the city by Fannie Shorr for a strip of land at Browning Terrace and Miller's Lane was accepted.

A claim of $27.15 filed by Joseph L. Diamond, of 67 West Union street, for damages done to his car Sept. 7 during a flooded condition in the Broadway underpass, was referred to the corporation counsel.

A resolution by First Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms dealt with postponement of the next meeting until Nov. 9 because the regular meeting date, November 2, is Election Day.

Eighth Ward Alderman Arthur Smith asked through resolutions that a light be placed near 227 West Chestnut street, that a sign to permit access to a driveway at 24 Adams street, be placed as requested by Mrs. Anna Kubicek, and that the public works department fix Mary's avenue from 1 to 23 to prevent the forming of puddles and washing away of lawns. They were referred for action.

Tenth Ward Alderman James K. Ryan, through a resolution, asked a zoning change to designate the DeCicco property at 41 Van Deusen street as in a business zone. It was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Will Act as Host

Home Service of the Ulster County American Red Cross will act as host to a group of chapters at a meeting to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Thursday, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Miss Julia Havilah, Red Cross representative from the eastern area will be present to give the workers the benefit of her wide experience in home service.

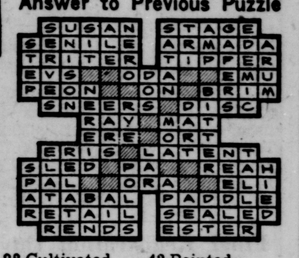
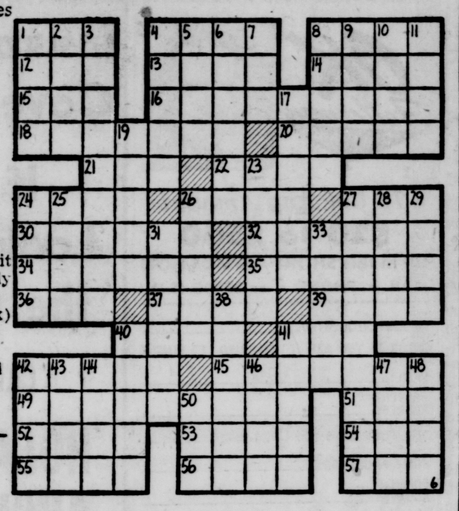
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Poughkeepsie Fetes Westrum

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 6 (AP)—Wes Westrum, catcher of the world champion New York Giants and a resident of nearby Hyde Park, was given a big homecoming here last night.

Westrum was honored with a parade through the town, culminating with a reception at the local ball park. There Mayor Robert Stephens made the catcher an "honorary citizen" of Poughkeepsie and the townsfolk presented him with other gifts.

When it began to rain during ceremonies, Fred Smith, town clerk, quipped: "This isn't rain—these are just some vagrant tears flowing in from Cleveland."

Building Dedicated

Ithaca, Oct. 6 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey said today the revolution in the techniques of farming has "just started." In a dedication speech for a new agricultural engineering building at Cornell University, Dewey stated: "As we rely increasingly on science and technology, on improved training of our leaders, teachers, and our people, we will see new vistas of production and happiness which have so far been only a dream."

Administration

sentiment here now is to wait and see what action the French Assembly takes on the new program.

Moreover, the agreements still have to be worked out in detail and to be acted on, at least in part, by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Council, which is scheduled to meet late this month.

In view of that necessity, the documents may not actually be ready for submission here in early November. The Senate returns Nov. 8 to consider a censure recommendation against Sen. McCarthy (R.-Wis.).

The only provision of the London agreements which officials are sure will require Senate action is the admission of West Germany as the 15th member of NATO. That probably will take the form of a protocol, or amendment to the treaty, which requires Senate ratification.

Other parts of the plan call for including West Germany in a 1948 West European Defense Treaty known as the Brussels Pact, for granting her sovereignty, for tightening the NATO military structure in order to control German rearmament, and for giving fresh assurances about the long-time presence of American troops in Europe.

The United States is not a members of the Brussels organization, and no action by this country is required on that.

Don't wait until the last minute to try to get that extra money for Christmas. Begin selling unused items now with Freeman want ads.

Nautilus Tests to Be Dockside

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sea trials of the atomic submarine Nautilus have been set back three months or more to permit replacement of steam piping which did not meet the navy's standards.

The defect showed up when a pipe burst on Sept. 18 while routine steam pressure tests were being made while the submarine was at its fitting-out berth at Groton, Conn.

Navy spokesmen said the reason for the dockside test of all the Nautilus' equipment—steam lines, hull and compartment pressure, control mechanism and other equipment—was to spot any weakness before the craft started out under her own power for operational trials.

THE NAVY, for security reasons, has not said where in the intricate atomic furnace-steam turbine system the 1½-inch steam line is used. The navy did say, at the time of the accident which caused minor injury to a yard workman, that the line did not involve the nuclear reactor and that there was no danger of release of radioactivity. This indicated the piping presumably was a component of the conventional steam system.

The 55-million-dollar Nautilus was launched last January.

The Deodorized Order of the Skunk, Aroma 85, will meet at Schneider's Hotel, Route 9W, Glenerie, Sunday at 4:30 p. m., and all members are urged to attend by the secretary, Fred W. Budion.

The firemen showed the cub Scouts, den chiefs, and den mothers the operation of the aerial ladder truck, displayed other methods of fire prevention, and supplied booklets pertaining to fire and its causes and preventitive measures. Ives Says . . .

the State Power Authority's St. Lawrence river project — Ives said Harriman had charged him with having "voted and worked consistently against transmitting to the consumer the savings of low-cost power of the St. Lawrence and Niagara."

"The fact is," Ives replied, "these matters never came to a vote in the Senate. My opponent is once more inventing. He is again saying I cast a vote on issues that never came to a Senate vote at all."

The senator maintained that he had "always been devoted" to both the Niagara and St. Lawrence power proposals.

HE SAID HE HAD introduced bills in Congress to license the power authority to undertake the Niagara project jointly with Canada. And he declared he had "strongly urged" the Federal Power Commission to license the authority for the St. Lawrence project.

The power authority has been authorized to develop hydroelectric power on the St. Lawrence and has left contracts for initial construction.

In a speech before approximately 300 persons at a buffet supper in Watertown last night, Ives reviewed his record on farm price supports and the seaway project, companion to the power development.

He said it was after "searching thought" that he had voted against Eisenhower administration legislation making the United States a partner with Canada in building the seaway.

BUT HE PROMISED that if elected governor he would "use every influence at my command to develop the fullest possible flow of benefits from it" for the state and for the St. Lawrence river area.

Ives said he had voted against the seaway measure in the belief that its "net effect upon the state would be unfavorable."

Turning to agricultural affairs, the senator urged dairy farmers struggling to overcome a milk surplus to "weather this difficult transition" from rigid to flexible crop supports.

Ives recalled that he had voted in favor of measures authorizing the secretary of agriculture to fix federal support for grain crops at between 82½ and 90 pe cent of parity.

Parity is a government yardstick of the relationship between what a farmer pays for the goods he must buy and what he gets for his products.

DAIRY FARMERS have complained that the price support for milk products, reduced last April 1 from 90 to 75 per cent of parity, is lower than the support price for the gain they must buy for their herds.

Ives said that in the changeover from rigid to flexible supports, "there are bound to be situations in which some farmers, such as dairymen, are squeezed by high supports for feed grains."

But "once we weather this difficult transition period," he went on, "we can achieve our goal of freedom and sound prosperity for all of our agriculture."

The senator said "even greater milk consumption is the real and only route to higher dairy income." He promised that if elected governor he would continue Gov. Dewey's current drink-more-milk drive and back "any other feasible proposals."

SEN. GEORGE AIKEN (R-Vt.), chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, supported Ives' position.

Aiken, formerly a dairy farmer himself, said at Watertown "we're half way out of the woods now" in solving problems created by the milk surplus.

"We can work out our problems. We can raise our own standards better than any government can do it for us," Aiken asserted.

Hazel Heads To Open Water

Miami, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel headed out over open waters of the Caribbean sea today after whirling through the windward islands during the night.

The latest official advisory placed the storm center about 180 miles north of the coast of Venezuela and 460 miles south-southwest of San Juan, Puerto Rico. There are no land areas in its immediate path.

A navy hurricane hunter plane flew into the storm area today.

Mrs. Ives Doesn't Show Concern

Watertown, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Irving M. Ives, splashed last night by the pulp of a ripe tomato, smiled it away today and said: "You wouldn't be angry at a thing like that."

As Sen. Ives, the Republican candidate for governor, addressed an outdoor rally here, a barrage of tomatoes suddenly splattered around the speakers' platform.

One, smashed against the railing a few feet from where Mrs. Ives sat. Crimson juice squirted onto her trim black suit and her marten fur piece. Pulp and seeds dripped down into her pocket.

REFERRING TO the incident as a "tomato surprise," Mrs. Ives commented: "Why let something so small bother you?"

Ives escaped with only a spot of juice the size of a quarter on his hat, which rested on a nearby chair as he spoke. Assemblyman Orin S. Wilcox, Jefferson county Republican, took a direct hit on the thigh and was heavily splashed.

The senator and Mrs. Ives carried on today with an upstate campaign trip taking them to nearby Gouverneur this morning and Ogdensburg this afternoon.

Aldermen OK

gerties before Public Service hearing.

Second Ward Alderman Benjamin Storms thanked Mayor Frederick H. Stang for his efforts in obtaining full-time protection at three city crossings, after the mayor's letter explaining his action, was read.

Storms noted that both himself and Third Ward Alderman Edwin Radel had been urging action for protection at the TenBroeck avenue, Gage street and Cemetery road crossings on a 24-hour basis, and he thought the protection gained by the mayor was all that is necessary.

The mayor's letter had explained that the New York Central Railroad had considered electrically-operated automatic protection costly at this time, but agreed, starting Oct. 1, to have 24-hour watchman service "pending installation, at a later date, of automatic protection."

CLAIMS TOTALLING $25,500 were filed by Beatrice and David Adler, of 114 Downs street, for injuries suffered by Mrs. Adler as the result of a fall last June 24 in front of 476 Broadway, due to a defective sidewalk.

Of the total, $5,000 was listed in behalf of David Adler for the loss of services of his wife. The $500 was listed for hospital and nursing expenses.

The claims were referred to Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy. Joseph Avis is counsel for the claimants.

Eight amendments to the city traffic code were adopted after a favorable report by the laws and rules committee.

THEY ARE TO RESTRICT parking on the north side of Andrew street from Broadway to Peter street from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., to designate a pedestrian crossing near the IBM building on Grand street, prohibit parking in front of the Kingston Powerboat Association property on Abeel street, install stop-signs on Mountain View avenue at Main street, at Furnace and Liberty streets, Murray street and Hasbrouck avenue, and establish a loading zone at the A. H. Gildersleeve building on Broadway, and one at the Dwyer store, Broadway and Field Court.

The aldermen voted special assessments for sewer installations in Stuyvesant street between Chambers and Livingston streets; Ponckhockie street, between Yeomans and Walnut streets; West Chestnut street (Dietz Court and Melvin Drive) between West Chestnut and McEntee streets; and Cross street, between First and Second avenues.

A deed offered to the city by Fannie Shorr for a strip of land at Browning Terrace and Miller's Lane was accepted.

A claim of $27.15 filed by Joseph L. Diamond, of 67 West Union street, for damages done to his car Sept. 7 during a flooded condition in the Broadway underpass, was referred to the corporation counsel.

A resolution by First Ward Alderman Benjamin A. Storms dealt with postponement of the next meeting until Nov. 9 because the regular meeting date, November 2, is Election Day.

Eighth Ward Alderman Arthur Smith asked through resolutions that a light be placed near 227 West Chestnut street, that a sign to permit access to a driveway at 24 Adams street, be placed as requested by Mrs. Anna Kubicek, and that the public works department fix Mary's avenue from 1 to 23 to prevent the forming of puddles and washing away of lawns. They were referred for action.

Tenth Ward Alderman James K. Ryan, through a resolution, asked a zoning change to designate the DeCicco property at 41 Van Deusen street as in a business zone. It was referred to the laws and rules committee.

Will Act as Host

Home Service of the Ulster County American Red Cross will act as host to a group of chapters at a meeting to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Thursday, beginning at 10:30 a. m. Miss Julia Havilah, Red Cross representative from the eastern area will be present to give the workers the benefit of her wide experience in home service.

Rigid Patterns Caused Heat

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP) —Rigid weather patterns far out over the Pacific, coupled with an "unusually intense" high pressure system over Bermuda, were blamed today for a record-breaking mid-autumn heat spell in eastern United States.

In Chicago last Sunday the temperature was 91 degrees, in Springfield, Ill., 93 and in Indianapolis 90. All were new record high temperatures for this late in the autumn. Last Saturday it registered 88 in Boston and 94 in Washington, both new high readings for the date.

Traffic Arrest Brings $170 Fines

Robert Lee Holmes of Marlborough, alias Ray McLean of Sanford, N. C., found it did not pay to trifle with the provisions of the Motor Vehicle and Traffice Law after he had wrecked his own car on Quarry road, Marlborough, late Monday.

During an investigation of the accident troopers from the Highland station on Tuesday questioned Holmes and when he allegedly made evasive answers he was placed under arrest and chaged with four violations of the Vehicle and Traffic law.

Taken before Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey at Milton, under the name of Robert Lee Holmes, Marlborough, he paid a fine of $30 on a charge of possessing a fictituous license. On a charge of failure to report an accident under that name he was also fined $100.

Arrested under the name of Ray McLean, Sanford, N. C., he paid a $10 fine for failure to provide proof of insurance and on a charge of operating an unlicensed vehicle he was fined $30. The total fine of $170 was paid.

program was "a patent attempt by the chief law enforcement officer of the United States to use an arm of the United States District Court as an instrumentality of political propaganda."

GOLDSCHEIN TOOK over his new role immediately, appearing in court to oppose the granting of Powell's motion.

The Justice Department said Powell "had charge of the rental housing program which operated from 1946 to 1950 and resulted in windfalls to speculators exceeding 51 million dollars alone in 285 cases reviewed by the housing and home finance agency.

Goldschein, in addition to his work with Rover and the grand jury here, will coordinate similar grand jury investigations which the attorney general has requested across the country.

The banking committee planned more testimony today on alleged windfall profits made by private promoters on apartment projects built with government-insured loans.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I read an insursurance ad the other day which mentioned Fire and Extended Coverage. The ad didn't explain exactly the Extended Coverage part and I'd like to know about it.

ANSWER: Space won't permit a complete explanation but briefly Extended Coverage is the grouping of a number of insurance protections that formerly were written separately and adding them to a fire insurance policy. Certain types of explosion, windstorm, hail, aircraft and vehicle damage are covered in addition to others. The premium is low and you should see a good insurance agent for full details.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.
